Gross Gives Problem on Trial Stand

Judge Threatens to Use Handcuffs to Keep Ex-Bookie in Chair to Testify

Pleads for Family

Pampering Is Blamed for Sarcasm Shown by Gambler Boss

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Bookie Harry Gross, angry and defiant, declared in court today he will not testify in the graft trial of 18 policemen "now or ever" because he didn't want to endanger his family.

"I'm thinking of my wife and children," he insisted.

Threats by Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz to send him to jail "for a thousand years" failed to change his stubborn stand.

The gambler's refusal to talk could break up the sensational trial in which policemen are accused of being paid off at the rate of $1,000,000 a year to protect Gross' huge bookmaking syndicate.

"We have no weapon in our hands to compel him to testify," District Attorney Miles McDonald said. "I don't know if we can salvage anything from this case. I see very little hope."

McDonald scoffed at Gross' worry about his family, and said "we have evidence that a substantial sum of money has been paid" to the gambler to seal his lips.

Ordered Back by Judge

New York, Sept. 19 (AP) — Gambler Harry Gross defiantly stomped down from the witness chair at Brooklyn's mass police-graft trial today, but returned after the judge threatened to "chain you to the chair."

"You come back here, and take that stand," Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz shouted. "If you don't, I'll chain you to the chair with handcuffs."

Glowering, the one-time multi-million-dollar bookmaker angled back up to the stand and sat down.

His defiant gesture came after he had refused for the second day in a row to continue his testimony about his purported million-dollar-a-year bribery payoffs to police.

Threatening and pleading at intervals, the judge sought to get Gross to continue. But the moody gambler said he was afraid his testimony would endanger his family.

Bridges, Ferguson Ask Military To Report on Atomic Arms for U. S.

Would Save Billions by Using Them in Lieu of Usual Types

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—Senators Bridges (R.-N.H.) and Ferguson (R.-Mich.) called on military leaders today to tell Congress whether all-out atomic arming of U. S. defense forces is feasible.

The two Republicans, members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said in separate interviews that lawmakers ought to know if it is possible to cut defense costs by $30,000,000,000 yearly by substituting atomic for conventional weapons.

Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) told the Senate yesterday such a saving would be possible. He urged that the army, navy and air force be armed primarily with atomic weapons.

He said the cheap, mass production of A-bombs could become a reality in three years, if a start were made now. Asserting that it would be possible to get the unit cost of a bomb down to what the country now pays for a tank—some $240,000-McMahon added:

"It is apparent now to all of us that there is a supply of raw materials coming into being with which we can fabricate atom bombs by the thousands."

No Detail Given

McMahon, who heads the Senate-House Atomic Committee, didn't go into detail, but Rep. Durham (D.-N.C.), vice chairman of the group, told a reporter thorium is a substance "we can use to fall back upon if we have to go into an all-out atomic program."

Ferguson said that McMahon's suggestion for substituting atomic for other weapons is something the joint chiefs of staff should talk to Congress about.

Bridges said that if McMahon's proposal is workable, "the military men ought to tell us so."

Pay Boost Attorney Appeals

Seeks Mandamus Order to Compel City Officers to Accept Proposition of Police, Firemen

Faced with a Sept. 25 deadline for filing papers with the Ulster County Board of Elections to place the police-firemen pay boost proposition on the November ballot, Attorney Frank Martocci, representing the referendum petitioners, went to Albany today to appeal in the Appellate Division the decision of Supreme Court Justice Herbert D. Hamm, which rules the petition illegal.

Justice Hamm's decision, received here yesterday by Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly and Martocci, says principally that the proposal is illegally presented because it lacks a plan to raise the required money for the pay raises, and it held that the city clerk and corporation counsel were not legally obliged to accept it.

Must File by Sept. 25

The election laws provide that propositions subject to such legal proceedings must be filed at the office of the Board of Elections not later than Sept. 25.

Martocci's move was for an order of mandamus from Justice Hamm "to compel the performance by public officers of alleged public duties," the respondents being the city clerk and the corporation counsel.

The petitioners also raised the question of the right of the city clerk to reject an additional petition after the original was rejected by Common Council vote and Justice Hamm in effect held that since the additional petition

Reds May Try to Lodge Charge of Another Violation, Observers Think

Ridgway Says It's Red Problem to Say What Shall Be Done

Tokyo, Sept. 19 (AP)—The United Nations command tonight agreed to a Communist request to send a liaison team tomorrow to the Kaesong neutral zone, site of the suspended Korean war armistice talks.

The Reds made the request shortly after the UN command announced that four unarmed South Korean soldiers yesterday mistakenly entered the neutral zone.

The Red request for a meeting raised speculation the Communists may want to discuss resumption of the stalled talks, or they may want to lodge another charge of allied violation of the neutral zone.

The Reds broke off the talks Aug. 23 after charging that an allied plane tried to "murder" Communist armistice negotiators with strafing fire in the zone the previous night.

Ask for Meeting

The Reds asked for a meeting with allied liaison officers at Panmunjom, Communist outpost near the edge of the neutral zone, at 6 a. m. Thursday (4 p. m. Wednesday EST).

Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, chief of information, general headquarters, said the UN liaison officers, accompanied by three correspondents, would meet with the Reds.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, has offered to send liaison officers to the outpost to discuss resumption of armistice talks any time the Reds wished. But he also has insisted that the Reds are the ones to say if and when they want the talks taken up again.

Some observers pointed out that 6 a. m. was too early in the day if the Reds wanted to talk about resuming the talks.

They said the early hour indicated more probably that another Red charge was coming up and that they wanted the UN liaison officers to investigate as soon as possible.

Others argued, however, that the Reds might have set the early hour to get the talks underway the same day, if that is what they want.

Tone of the notes exchanged between the Reds and Allies recently has been more moderate than at any time since the talks were suspended.

The South Koreans who wandered into the neutral zone by mistake Tuesday were held by the Communists 20 hours, then freed, a UN command release said.

The Reds had charged that the incident was a violation of the Kaesong neutral zone.

The UN command took a lighter view.

It said the four, members of an anti-epidemic unit, were "armed with nothing more dangerous than DDT."

Investigation of the Red complaint, the command said, "took place without incident and in an atmosphere almost completely devoid of tension."

The release said the UN investigators questioned the South Korean soldiers, headed by Sgt. Na Kwang Sin, "following which they and the one and one-half ton truck which had been captured with them were released."

The release said Na told interrogators his group lost its way en route to spray South Korean billets and inadvertently entered the neutral zone.

Atlantic Alliance Discusses Middle Eastern Defenses

Turkey Would Become Key Nation in Program Being Talked About at Conference at Ottawa; United States Proposal Supported

Ottawa, Sept. 19 (AP)—Creation of a new middle eastern defense system on Russia's flank, with Turkey as the pivotal nation, was reported authoritatively today to be under discussion by the Atlantic Alliance.

Top military leaders count on Turkey becoming the key country in such a setup after Turkey is linked to the United States and its allies by a mutual security treaty.

The Atlantic Council meeting here is discussing a proposal to admit Turkey and Greece to the North Atlantic treaty organization. Even if Turkey is not accepted by NATO, tentative plans call for other countries in its strategic area to join it in a new Middle East command.

Military and defense officials of the 12 NATO nations opened discussions yesterday on command problems which would be created by the admission of Greece and Turkey.

The U. S. proposal to enlarge the Atlantic Treaty to include them has won the outright support of 10 NATO governments. A final decision has been delayed until Danish Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft gets new instructions from his government, probably today.

Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange also has withheld approval, but has indicated that Norway will go along if Denmark accepts the proposal.

Suggests Little 'NATO'

Britain has suggested a "little NATO" of countries around the Mediterranean as one possible alternative. The American government has considered making direct mutual defense pacts with Greece and Turkey should they be barred from NATO.

While major attention here was centered on the Greek-Turkish issue, there were these other developments as the council's session approached its close tomorrow:

1. Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison of Britain said in a public speech that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization could be developed into an "Atlantic community" in which all people would have common citizenship. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in a radio talk, similarly spoke of the

Contractors Rush Work on Two New Schools in County

Marbletown School to Be Finished in Spring; See Next Fall as Onteora Opening

By this time next year, boys and girls from wide areas of Ulster county will be wending their way—by bus, usually—to spacious, modern, fireproof school buildings, far different from the one-room schools many of their fathers attended.

Typical of the unprecedented school construction activity going on over the nation are the two Ulster county schools pictured here as contractors hastened to accomplish as much as possible before winter weather begins.

The 10-room Marbletown Central School is taking shape on a 16-acre site at the junction of the Peak road and the Kripplebush road, about a half mile west of the village of Stone Ridge. The contractors are aiming for completion by next spring. Designed by Architect Harry Halverson, the new building will feature separate kindergarten facilities, a combination gym and 500-seat auditorium, locker and shower rooms, arts and crafts room, combination cafeteria and music room, and other facilities in addition to the 10 class rooms. It is intended to be a complete elementary school, accommodating pupils from kindergarten through the seventh grade. A $610,000 bond issue was approved by voters of the district to finance the construction.

The other school pictured is the $2,000,000 Onteora Central School, under construction on Route 28 at Boiceville. The school board hopes the school will be ready for occupancy when the school term opens next fall, but much depends upon whether the building can be enclosed before winter weather begins. Cost of the school was originally estimated at $1,850,000. Rising costs resulted in an additional request for $300,000, which was vigorously contested for a time but was finally approved by the voters on February 13 of this year by a vote of 507 to 468.

The two new buildings reflect not only the trend toward centralization in rural areas, but also

Action Is Halted On Ouster Aimed At Sen. McCarthy

Postponement Is Made Till Hennings Gets Back to Post on Committee

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—A Senate elections subcommittee today postponed action on a resolution aimed at determining whether Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) should be ousted from the Senate.

The delay was asked by Senator Hennings (D.-Mo.), a member of the subcommittee. McCarthy had suggested yesterday that Hennings withdraw from consideration of the ouster proposal, which is sponsored by Senator Benton (D.-Conn.).

McCarthy's move came after Hennings had left for New York to attend a meeting of the American Bar Association. Senator Gillette (D.-Iowa), the subcommittee chairman, told reporters he had received a telegram from Hennings asking that consideration of the Benton resolution be put off until he could be present.

May Act Tomorrow

Gillette said it might be possible for the group to get together tomorrow if Hennings is back in town by then.

The subcommittee had planned to decide at today's session whether hearings should be held on the Benton proposal. It also had intended to rule on a demand by McCarthy that he be permitted to question witnesses.

In advance of today's meeting, Benton told a reporter he thinks McCarthy is "worried" about the

American Jets Drop Soviet-Type Plane In Korean Battle

Allied Troops Take Ridge in East, Along With Other Hills—Rain Is Hindrance

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 19 (AP)—American jet fighters today shot down one Russian-type MIG-15 jet and damaged five in a furious air battle over northwestern Korea.

Only a few American F-86 Sabre jets and F-84 Thunderjets clashed with eight MIGs in the fight over MIG Alley, not far from the Communist pilots' Manchurian sanctuary.

It was a small battle compared with earlier fights which have involved as many as 110 planes. But it was intense.

The killed was credited to Capt. Dennis L. Skeen of Twin Falls, Idaho. It was the first time he'd seen any MIGs.

On the ground, allied troops straddling a newly-won peak on "heartbreak ridge" in eastern Korea hurled back two Communist attacks Wednesday.

Height Is Taken

They won the commanding height after a bitter fight that ended Tuesday midnight.

The north-south ridge is 35 miles inland from Korea's east coast.

The Eighth Army reported earlier that three major hills were captured Tuesday by allied forces on the flaming eastern front.

On one, 206 Reds were killed and 37 captured by allied infantrymen struggling up rain-swept, muddy slopes.

Red resistance Tuesday on the rest of the eastern front was moderate.

Allied forces have driven nearly 15 miles northward in a month of savage fighting against solidly dug-in Reds in the east.

Tank-led allied troops on the west-central front threw two surprise attacks at the Reds Tuesday but were repulsed each time.

Council Votes $28,000 for Sewer

The Common Council legislated last night in special session to provide $28,000 for the Elizabeth street-Washington avenue sewer project which will serve five city wards.

Provisions were made to secure bond anticipation notes pending later bond sale. The sum is in addition to $30,000 previously made available for the project which will provide a comprehensive sewer system, both sanitary and storm water, to serve areas in the First, Second, 10th and 12th wards.

One function of the sewer system, which will make use of a Washington avenue tunnel already in existence, will be to relieve flood conditions caused by heavy overflow from the headwaters of the Twaalfskill brook during storms.

It was found through survey that the additional money would be necessary to provide adequate sanitary sewer facilities as well as storm water drainage in the area.

The tunnel in the Washington avenue area, built for the city at the time when the Ashokan reservoir system was under construction will be an important factor in the project.

The Board of Public Works was expected to award contracts for the work at its meeting today. In addition to construction of the sewer there will be a separate shaft-digging project.

Appeal Is Taken In Tarrock Case

Argument Is Scheduled Before Court in Albany Today

An appeal from a $35,000 verdict, which was returned in Supreme Court here last March, in the action brought by Lillian Tarrock, as executrix of the estate of her husband, Ernest Tarrock who resided in Port Ewen, was scheduled for argument before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Albany this morning.

The verdict was returned by the jury in an action to recover $70,000 from the City of Kingston for negligent maintenance of Dock street where the Tarrock car went off the dock and Tarrock was drowned.

At the time of the accident Tarrock had come down Ravine street and turned into Dock street. It was alleged at the trial that Dock street, which runs parallel to the Rondout creek, was not properly maintained and that there was no guard rail at the point.

An action against the City of Kingston was brought to recover $70,000 and the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $35,000.

John E. Egan and Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appeared for plaintiff and Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly appeared for the city. The accident happened February 4, 1949.

An appeal from the lower court's decision was taken to the Appellate Division.

One Person Injured

One person was injured slightly in a traffic mishap at Elmendorf street and Manor avenue yesterday. The police report at 4:16 p. m., said a station wagon owned and operated by Maude Boice, R.D., Kingston and a coupe owned and driven by William Ayres, 63 East Chester street, were in collision. The driver of the station wagon was taken to Kingston Hospital in a Conner ambulance, the report said. She was treated and discharged, but the extent of her injuries was not disclosed.

There's No Ceiling Price Now On Being Married by Justice

Washington, Sept 19 (AP)—The government today lifted the lid on the price of getting married by a Justice of the Peace. It also decontrolled the charges of process servers for delivery of court papers.

These were among 22 services exempted from controls by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS). The OPS formally took the wraps off fees of barbers and beauticians—previously exempted by congressional action.

In two other orders today, the OPS:

1. Authorized OPS field offices to make adjustments on ceilings for fluid milk and cream products in marketing areas within their jurisdiction, thus moving a step nearer the principle of community pricing.

2. Authorized packers of canned fruit cocktails and other fruit mixtures, clingstone peaches and California pears, to compute new ceilings expected to bring slight increases for these products to consumers.

In exempting the 22 services from price controls, OPS said "this action will have little effect on the cost of living."

Among services whose fees are exempted are real estate brokers and appraisers, labor relations and public relations counselors, advertising agencies, newspaper carrier and delivery services, notaries

Britons Speculate About King's Health; No Comment

London, Sept. 19 (AP)—Worried Britons speculated today on King George's illness as they waited for more details on the lung disease affecting the 55-year-old monarch.

Starting at dawn, London news stands did a land-office business as commuters snatched papers carrying headlines like "serious news" and "king's lung is affected."

Little knots of early risers gathered at the gilt-spiked fence in front of Buckingham Palace. They hoped to get an early morning bulletin on the king's condition.

Doctors for the tired monarch disclosed last night that "structural changes have developed" in one of his lungs, indicating a serious ailment. A medical bulletin last night gave the explanation of the condition.

Nine doctors signed the bulletin, including a tuberculosis specialist.

A London lung specialst—not one of the nine examining the king—said "structural changes" can mean any of several lung diseases. He said the wording of the bulletin "suggests the doctors are not sure what is the whole trouble."

Queen Elizabeth, Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, returned by plane last night from a vacation in Scotland.

One function of the sewer system, which will make use of a Washington avenue tunnel already in existence, will be to relieve flood conditions caused by heavy overflow from the headwaters of the Twaalfskill brook during storms.

It was found through survey that the additional money would be necessary to provide adequate sanitary sewer facilities as well as storm water drainage in the area.

The tunnel in the Washington avenue area, built for the city at the time when the Ashokan reservoir system was under construction will be an important factor in the project.

The Boerd of Public Works was expected to award contracts for the work at its meeting today. In addition to construction of the sewer there will be a separate shaft-digging project.

Atlantic Alliance Discusses Middle Eastern Defenses

Turkey Would Become Key Nation in Program Being Talked About at Conference at Ottawa; United States Proposal Supported

Ottawa, Sept. 19 (AP)—Creation of a new middle eastern defense system on Russia's flank, with Turkey as the pivotal nation, was reported authoritatively today to be under discussion by the Atlantic Alliance.

Top military leaders count on Turkey becoming the key country in such a setup after Turkey is linked to the United States and its allies by a mutual security treaty.

The Atlantic Council meeting here is discussing a proposal to admit Turkey and Greece to the North Atlantic treaty organization. Even if Turkey is not accepted by NATO, tentative plans call for other countries in its strategic area to join it in a new Middle East command.

Military and defense officials of the 12 NATO nations opened discussions yesterday on command problems which would be created by the admission of Greece and Turkey.

The U. S. proposal to enlarge the Atlantic Treaty to include them has won the outright support of 10 NATO governments. A final decision has been delayed until Danish Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft gets new instructions from his government, probably today.

Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange also has withheld approval, but has indicated that Norway will go along if Denmark accepts the proposal.

Suggests Little 'NATO'

Britain has suggested a "little NATO" of countries around the Mediterranean as one possible alternative. The American government has considered making direct mutual defense pacts with Greece and Turkey should they be barred from NATO.

While major attention here was centered on the Greek-Turkish issue, there were these other developments as the council's session approached its close tomorrow:

1. Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison of Britain said in a public speech that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization could be developed into an "Atlantic community" in which all people would have common citizenship. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in a radio talk, similarly spoke of the

Marbletown School to Be Finished in Spring; See Next Fall as Onteora Opening

By this time next year, boys and girls from wide areas of Ulster county will be wending their way—by bus, usually—to spacious, modern, fireproof school buildings, far different from the one-room schools many of their fathers attended.

Typical of the unprecedented school construction activity going on over the nation are the two Ulster county schools pictured here as contractors hastened to accomplish as much as possible before winter weather begins.

The 10-room Marbletown Central School is taking shape on a 16-acre site at the junction of the Peak road and the Kripplebush road, about a half mile west of the village of Stone Ridge. The contractors are aiming for completion by next spring. Designed by Architect Harry Halverson, the new building will feature separate kindergarten facilities, a combination gym and 500-seat auditorium, locker and shower rooms, arts and crafts room, combination cafeteria and music room, and other facilities in addition to the 10 class rooms. It is intended to be a complete elementary school, accommodating pupils from kindergarten through the seventh grade. A $610,000 bond issue was approved by voters of the district to finance the construction.

The other school pictured is the $2,000,000 Onteora Central School, under construction on Route 28 at Boiceville. The school board hopes the school will be ready for occupancy when the school term opens next fall, but much depends upon whether the building can be enclosed before winter weather begins. Cost of the school was originally estimated at $1,850,000. Rising costs resulted in an additional request for $300,000, which was vigorously contested for a time but was finally approved by the voters on February 13 of this year by a vote of 507 to 468.

The two new buildings reflect not only the trend toward centralization in rural areas, but also

Argument Is Scheduled Before Court in Albany Today

An appeal from a $35,000 verdict, which was returned in Supreme Court here last March, in the action brought by Lillian Tarrock, as executrix of the estate of her husband, Ernest Tarrock who resided in Port Ewen, was scheduled for argument before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Albany this morning.

The verdict was returned by the jury in an action to recover $70,000 from the City of Kingston for negligent maintenance of Dock street where the Tarrock car went off the dock and Tarrock was drowned.

At the time of the accident Tarrock had come down Ravine street and turned into Dock street. It was alleged at the trial that Dock street, which runs parallel to the Rondout creek, was not properly maintained and that there was no guard rail at the point.

An action against the City of Kingston was brought to recover $70,000 and the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $35,000.

John E. Egan and Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appeared for plaintiff and Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly appeared for the city. The accident happened February 4, 1949.

An appeal from the lower court's decision was taken to the Appellate Division.

One Person Injured

One person was injured slightly in a traffic mishap at Elmendorf street and Manor avenue yesterday. The police report at 4:16 p. m., said a station wagon owned and operated by Maude Boice, R.D., Kingston and a coupe owned and driven by William Ayres, 63 East Chester street, were in collision. The driver of the station wagon was taken to Kingston Hospital in a Conner ambulance, the report said. She was treated and discharged, but the extent of her injuries was not disclosed.

There's No Ceiling Price Now On Being Married by Justice

Washington, Sept 19 (AP)—The government today lifted the lid on the price of getting married by a Justice of the Peace. It also decontrolled the charges of process servers for delivery of court papers.

These were among 22 services exempted from controls by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS). The OPS formally took the wraps off fees of barbers and beauticians—previously exempted by congressional action.

In two other orders today, the OPS:

1. Authorized OPS field offices to make adjustments on ceilings for fluid milk and cream products in marketing areas within their jurisdiction, thus moving a step nearer the principle of community pricing.

2. Authorized packers of canned fruit cocktails and other fruit mixtures, clingstone peaches and California pears, to compute new ceilings expected to bring slight increases for these products to consumers.

In exempting the 22 services from price controls, OPS said "this action will have little effect on the cost of living."

Among services whose fees are exempted are real estate brokers and appraisers, labor relations and public relations counselors, advertising agencies, newspaper carrier and delivery services, notaries

Britons Speculate About King's Health; No Comment

London, Sept. 19 (AP)—Worried Britons speculated today on King George's illness as they waited for more details on the lung disease affecting the 55-year-old monarch.

Starting at dawn, London news stands did a land-office business as commuters snatched papers carrying headlines like "serious news" and "king's lung is affected."

Little knots of early risers gathered at the gilt-spiked fence in front of Buckingham Palace. They hoped to get an early morning bulletin on the king's condition.

Doctors for the tired monarch disclosed last night that "structural changes have developed" in one of his lungs, indicating a serious ailment. A medical bulletin last night gave the explanation of the condition.

Nine doctors signed the bulletin, including a tuberculosis specialist.

A London lung specialist—not one of the nine examining the king—said "structural changes" can mean any of several lung diseases. He said the wording of the bulletin "suggests the doctors are not sure what is the whole trouble."

Gross Gives Problem on Trial Stand

Judge Threatens to Use Handcuffs to Keep Ex-Bookie in Chair to Testify

Pampering Is Blamed for Sarcasm Shown by Gambler Boss

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Bookie Harry Gross, angry and defiant, declared in court today he will not testify in the graft trial of 18 policemen "now or ever" because he didn't want to endanger his family.

"I'm thinking of my wife and children," he insisted.

Threats by Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz to send him to jail "for a thousand years" failed to change his stubborn stand.

The gambler's refusal to talk could break up the sensational trial in which policemen are accused of being paid off at the rate of $1,000,000 a year to protect Gross' huge bookmaking syndicate.

"We have no weapon in our hands to compel him to testify," District Attorney Miles McDonald said. "I don't know if we can salvage anything from this case. I see very little hope."

McDonald scoffed at Gross' worry about his family, and said "we have evidence that a substantial sum of money has been paid" to the gambler to seal his lips.

Ordered Back by Judge

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Gambler Harry Gross defiantly stomped down from the witness chair at Brooklyn's mass police-graft trial today, but returned after the judge threatened to "chain you to the chair."

"You come back here, and take that stand," Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz shouted. "If you don't, I'll chain you to the chair with handcuffs."

Glowering, the one-time multi-million-dollar bookmaker angled back up to the stand and sat down.

His defiant gesture came after he had refused for the second day in a row to continue his testimony about his purported million-dollar-a-year bribery payoffs to police.

Threatening and pleading at intervals, the judge sought to get Gross to continue. But the moody gambler said he was afraid his testimony would endanger his family.

Seeks Mandamus Order to Compel City Officers to Accept Proposition of Police, Firemen

Faced with a Sept. 25 deadline for filing papers with the Ulster County Board of Elections to place the police-firemen pay boost proposition on the November ballot, Attorney Frank Martocci, representing the referendum petitioners, went to Albany today to appeal in the Appellate Division the decision of Supreme Court Justice Herbert D. Hamm, which rules the petition illegal.

Justice Hamm's decision, received here yesterday by Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly and Martocci, says principally that the proposal is illegally presented because it lacks a plan to raise the required money for the pay raises, and it held that the city clerk and corporation counsel were not legally obliged to accept it.

Must File by Sept. 25

The election laws provide that propositions subject to such legal proceedings must be filed at the office of the Board of Elections not later than Sept. 25.

Martocci's move was for an order of mandamus from Justice Hamm "to compel the performance by public officers of alleged public duties," the respondents being the city clerk and the corporation counsel.

The petitioners also raised the question of the right of the city clerk to reject an additional petition after the original was rejected by Common Council vote and Justice Hamm in effect held that since the additional petition

Purpose Is Not Clear to Allied Side

Sticks to Point

Ridgway Says It's Red Problem to Say What Shall Be Done

Tokyo, Sept. 19 (AP)—The United Nations command tonight agreed to a Communist request to send a liaison team tomorrow to the Kaesong neutral zone, site of the suspended Korean war armistice talks.

The Reds made the request shortly after the UN command announced that four unarmed South Korean soldiers yesterday mistakenly entered the neutral zone.

The Red request for a meeting raised speculation the Communists may want to discuss resumption of the stalled talks, or they may want to lodge another charge of allied violation of the neutral zone.

The Reds broke off the talks Aug. 23 after charging that an allied plane tried to "murder" Communist armistice negotiators with strafing fire in the zone the previous night.

Ask for Meeting

The Reds asked for a meeting with allied liaison officers at Panmunjom, Communist outpost near the edge of the neutral zone, at 6 a. m. Thursday (4 p. m. Wednesday EST).

Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, chief of information, general headquarters, said the UN liaison officers, accompanied by three correspondents, would meet with the Reds.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, has offered to send liaison officers to the outpost to discuss resumption of armistice talks any time the Reds wished. But he also has insisted that the Reds are the ones to say if and when they want the talks taken up again.

Some observers pointed out that 6 a. m. was too early in the day if the Reds wanted to talk about resuming the talks.

They said the early hour indicated more probably that another Red charge was coming up and that they wanted the UN liaison officers to investigate as soon as possible.

Others argued, however, that the Reds might have set the early hour to get the talks underway the same day, if that is what they want.

Tone of the notes exchanged between the Reds and Allies recently has been more moderate than at any time since the talks were suspended.

The South Koreans who wandered into the neutral zone by mistake Tuesday were held by the Communists 20 hours, then freed, a UN command release said.

The Reds had charged that the incident was a violation of the Kaesong neutral zone.

The UN command took a lighter view.

It said the four, members of an anti-epidemic unit, were "armed with nothing more dangerous than DDT."

Investigation of the Red complaint, the command said, "took place without incident and in an atmosphere almost completely devoid of tension."

The release said the UN investigators questioned the South Korean soldiers, headed by Sgt. Na Kwang Sin, "following which they and the one and one-half ton truck which had been captured with them were released."

The release said Na told interrogators his group lost its way en route to spray South Korean billets and inadvertently entered the neutral zone.

Action Is Halted On Ouster Aimed At Sen. McCarthy

Postponement Is Made Till Hennings Gets Back to Post on Committee

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—A Senate elections subcommittee today postponed action on a resolution aimed at determining whether Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) should be ousted from the Senate.

The delay was asked by Senator Hennings (D.-Mo.), a member of the subcommittee. McCarthy had suggested yesterday that Hennings withdraw from consideration of the ouster proposal, which is sponsored by Senator Benton (D.-Conn.).

McCarthy's move came after Hennings had left for New York to attend a meeting of the American Bar Association. Senator Gillette (D.-Iowa), the subcommittee chairman, told reporters he had received a telegram from Hennings asking that consideration of the Benton resolution be put off until he could be present.

May Act Tomorrow

Gillette said it might be possible for the group to get together tomorrow if Hennings is back in town by then.

The subcommittee had planned to decide at today's session whether hearings should be held on the Benton proposal. It also had intended to rule on a demand by McCarthy that he be permitted to question witnesses.

In advance of today's meeting, Benton told a reporter he thinks McCarthy is "worried" about the

American Jets Drop Soviet-Type Plane In Korean Battle

Allied Troops Take Ridge in East, Along With Other Hills—Rain Is Hindrance

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 19 (AP)—American jet fighters today shot down one Russian-type MIG-15 jet and damaged five in a furious air battle over northwestern Korea.

Only a few American F-86 Sabre jets and F-84 Thunderjets clashed with eight MIGs in the fight over MIG Alley, not far from the Communist pilots' Manchurian sanctuary.

It was a small battle compared with earlier fights which have involved as many as 110 planes. But it was intense.

The killed was credited to Capt. Dennis L. Skeen of Twin Falls, Idaho. It was the first time he'd seen any MIGs.

On the ground, allied troops straddling a newly-won peak on "heartbreak ridge" in eastern Korea hurled back two Communist attacks Wednesday.

Height Is Taken

They won the commanding height after a bitter fight that ended Tuesday midnight.

The north-south ridge is 35 miles inland from Korea's east coast.

The Eighth Army reported earlier that three major hills were captured Tuesday by allied forces on the flaming eastern front.

On one, 206 Reds were killed and 37 captured by allied infantrymen struggling up rain-swept, muddy slopes.

Red resistance Tuesday on the rest of the eastern front was moderate.

Allied forces have driven nearly 15 miles northward in a month of savage fighting against solidly dug-in Reds in the east.

Tank-led allied troops on the west-central front threw two surprise attacks at the Reds Tuesday but were repulsed each time.

Would Save Billions by Using Them in Lieu of Usual Types

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—Senators Bridges (R.-N.H.) and Ferguson (R.-Mich.) called on military leaders today to tell Congress whether all-out atomic arming of U. S. defense forces is feasible.

The two Republicans, members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said in separate interviews that lawmakers ought to know if it is possible to cut defense costs by $30,000,000,000 yearly by substituting atomic for conventional weapons.

Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) told the Senate yesterday such a saving would be possible. He urged that the army, navy and air force be armed primarily with atomic weapons.

He said the cheap, mass production of A-bombs could become a reality in three years, if a start were made now. Asserting that it would be possible to get the unit cost of a bomb down to what the country now pays for a tank—some $240,000-McMahon added:

"It is apparent now to all of us that there is a supply of raw materials coming into being with which we can fabricate atom bombs by the thousands."

No Detail Given

McMahon, who heads the Senate-House Atomic Committee, didn't go into detail, but Rep. Durham (D.-N.C.), vice chairman of the group, told a reporter thorium is a substance "we can use to fall back upon if we have to go into an all-out atomic program."

Ferguson said that McMahon's suggestion for substituting atomic for other weapons is something the joint chiefs of staff should talk to Congress about.

Bridges said that if McMahon's proposal is workable, "the military men ought to tell us so."

Council Votes $28,000 for Sewer

The Common Council legislated last night in special session to provide $28,000 for the Elizabeth street-Washington avenue sewer project which will serve five city wards.

Provisions were made to secure bond anticipation notes pending later bond sale. The sum is in addition to $30,000 previously made available for the project which will provide a comprehensive sewer system, both sanitary and storm water, to serve areas in the First, Second, 10th and 12th wards.

One function of the sewer system, which will make use of a Washington avenue tunnel already in existence, will be to relieve flood conditions caused by heavy overflow from the headwaters of the Twaalfskill brook during storms.

Meat Drive Steps Up

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP) — The government has stepped up its drive to enforce meat price ceilings. The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) announced yesterday the dispatch of investigators to Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Newark to see that slaughterers are complying with ceilings on live cattle prices. Other major cities will also be checked, an OPS spokesman said. Edward P. Morgan, price enforcement director, said OPS wants to learn if there is substance to packers' complaints they cannot buy cattle at the prices fixed and still remain in business.

Ex-King Buys House

Syossett, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Former King Zog of Albania has bought a sumptuous 60-room mansion on a 95-acre estate here on the north shore of Long Island. He may go in for farming on the side. The exiled monarch is expected to move here with his family and a retinue of servants. There is talk that "a bucket of diamonds and rubies" was the purchase price. But there is no official confirmation. Ex-King Zog has been living in England and other countries since 1939, when the Italians occupied his small nation.

Joe Says They're Fast

Philadelphia, Sept. 19 (AP)—There's a Philadelphia bookmaker named "Joe" who's convinced today that police here are pretty fast workers. Detective Theodore Mitchell recently raided Joe's gambling headquarters, then advised the telephone company to disconnect the phones. Mitchell kept his eyes open. The other day he spotted "Joe" driving a new car, stopped it to take a better look inside. There he saw a radio-telephone handset dangling from the dash. 'You got a phone in your car," said Mitchell. "Yeah," replied Joe. "Had it a week and already you're wise." The telephone company was notified, and Joe's radio phone is gone.

Aid Totals 31 Billions

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—Postwar aid from the United States to foreign countries totaled $31,400,000,000 through last March 31, the National Advisory Council on International Monetary Problems told Congress yesterday. The council, headed by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, submitted its report through President Truman. It placed foreign aid from last Oct. 1 to March 31 at $2,400,000,000, and noted a big shift from economic to arms aid in this period, after the start of the Korean fighting.

AFL Says Russia Kidnaps in Europe

San Francisco, Sept. 19 (AP)—AFL leaders today assembled evidence to put before the United Nations charging that Soviet Russia is engaging in kidnapings in western Germany, Austria and other free areas of occupied countries.

A resolution calling upon the UN to launch a full investigation also was being readied for introduction at the AFL convention here, probably Friday.

That resolution will be based on documents collected and verified by the AFL's hard-hitting European staff. Members include Irving Brown who has been fighting to rebuild in Europe free trade unions friendly to the U. S. and the west generally.

Legislation Is Offered

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—New legislation to cut off trade relations with Communist Czechoslovakia was offered in the House yesterday by Rep. Armstrong (R.-Mo). He said he offered the bill as a protest against the Czech regime's imprisonment of William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent in Prague, on espionage charges this government has termed farcial. Expressing disappointment that President Truman had not acted, Armstrong said he feels "Congress itself should make the move to hit this Red regime where it will hurt most."

Ex-King Buys House

Syossett, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Former King Zog of Albania has bought a sumptuous 60-room mansion on a 95-acre estate here on the north shore of Long Island. He may go in for farming on the side. The exiled monarch is expected to move here with his family and a retinue of servants. There is talk that "a bucket of diamonds and rubies" was the purchase price. But there is no official confirmation. Ex-King Zog has been living in England and other countries since 1939, when the Italians occupied his small nation.

Joe Says They're Fast

Philadelphia, Sept. 19 (AP)—There's a Philadelphia bookmaker named "Joe" who's convinced today that police here are pretty fast workers. Detective Theodore Mitchell recently raided Joe's gambling headquarters, then advised the telephone company to disconnect the phones. Mitchell kept his eyes open. The other day he spotted "Joe" driving a new car, stopped it to take a better look inside. There he saw a radio-telephone handset dangling from the dash. 'You got a phone in your car," said Mitchell. "Yeah," replied Joe. "Had it a week and already you're wise." The telephone company was notified, and Joe's radio phone is gone.

Aid Totals 31 Billions

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—Postwar aid from the United States to foreign countries totaled $31,400,000,000 through last March 31, the National Advisory Council on International Monetary Problems told Congress yesterday. The council, headed by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, submitted its report through President Truman. It placed foreign aid from last Oct. 1 to March 31 at $2,400,000,000, and noted a big shift from economic to arms aid in this period, after the start of the Korean fighting.

AFL Says Russia Kidnaps in Europe

San Francisco, Sept. 19 (AP)—AFL leaders today assembled evidence to put before the United Nations charging that Soviet Russia is engaging in kidnapings in western Germany, Austria and other free areas of occupied countries.

A resolution calling upon the UN to launch a full investigation also was being readied for introduction at the AFL convention here, probably Friday.

That resolution will be based on documents collected and verified by the AFL's hard-hitting European staff. Members include Irving Brown who has been fighting to rebuild in Europe free trade unions friendly to the U. S. and the west generally.

Legislation Is Offered

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—New legislation to cut off trade relations with Communist Czechoslovakia was offered in the House yesterday by Rep. Armstrong (R.-Mo). He said he offered the bill as a protest against the Czech regime's imprisonment of William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent in Prague, on espionage charges this government has termed farcial. Expressing disappointment that President Truman had not acted, Armstrong said he feels "Congress itself should make the move to hit this Red regime where it will hurt most."

Meat Drive Steps Up

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP) — The government has stepped up its drive to enforce meat price ceilings. The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) announced yesterday the dispatch of investigators to Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Newark to see that slaughterers are complying with ceilings on live cattle prices. Other major cities will also be checked, an OPS spokesman said. Edward P. Morgan, price enforcement director, said OPS wants to learn if there is substance to packers' complaints they cannot buy cattle at the prices fixed and still remain in business.

WAR CAN BE AVERTED

Rarely does Dr. James Bryant Conant of Harvard speak publicly without stirring the mind and conscience of the nation.

Amid the clamor of voices shouting that a third world war is inevitable, Conant offers a calmer counsel. He declares that war can be averted, albeit by only "the narrowest of margins."

Though Conant is a scientist, he is also an astute observer of world affairs. His forecasts are never reckless but always informed and careful.

For the next decade at least, he sees no release from the constant strain of war threat. But he still believes the great storm will not descend. Time and again, he is convinced, one or the other of the major antagonists will hold back because their military leaders won't be able to guarantee final success.

This will be so, says Conant, because the United States and Russia will be in such relative balance militarily that neither can hope for crushing advantage. He sees this stalemate as prelude to a "great settlement" after the 1960's get under way. And he believes a period of genuine peace may then be ushered in.

Conant's crystal ball tells him it is the West's renewal of its armament which creates a stalemate and sets the stage for an accord. Not the "magic of atomic bombs" but balanced military forces enable the Western powers to equate their strength with Russia's.

In fact, he clearly thinks the atomic bomb and the whole concept of atomic energy is being vastly overplayed by generals, statesmen and scientists alike. It's his view that as time passes nations will see the bomb as more a liability than an asset.

Future scientists, he says, may look back on the 1940's not as the period when atomic energy came into use but the time when certain tools were devised which assisted toward the ultimate use of solar energy. It is this to which Conant turns as the likeliest source of unlimited cheap power in the decades ahead.

Conant's sharply reasoned perspective on our future should arouse hope in many hearts. But it must be noted that he is not counseling laxity in defense. On the contrary: he sees the avoidance of war as the direct consequence of really adequate preparedness.

"Frontiers must be protected against invasion by human beings ready to die if necessary," he says. "And those frontiers are for us in the United States the world frontiers of freedom."

The tempered tones of a Conant are the perfect prescription for America in a time when men are moved either to wax hysterical over our peril, or to take the even worse course of ignoring their danger. Conant does neither; yet he does not see war.

BLUNDER IN MOSCOW

One mystery hidden by the Iron Curtain concerns the fate of those Kremlin advisers who recommended the Korean war. They have predicted that the United States would not fight, or at least not effectively. No prediction could have been more wrong.

In addition to stirring up America, the Communist aggression has advanced the rearmament of Western Europe as no other recent development has done. The whole is a serious setback for Russia, and is plainly a Communist blunder.

In the Soviet Union blunders are not committed without a penalty. There are too many aspirants for power who are only too willing to point out the mistakes of a rival.

INSECTICIDE PARATHION

New York State residents have been warned by the State Health Department to take extreme precautions against poisoning by the insecticide parathion. The solution in many cases is used for spraying gardens and farm fields.

The solution is so highly toxic that people who have walked through fields as much as 48 hours after spraying have become dangerously ill. The warning was issued after district health officers from several counties in the state reported that farm workers had suffered illnesses after working in sprayed fields.

A few years ago Germany and Japan were our worst enemies. Now we are counting on their aid. It seems to be one of the lessons of history that no international friendship nor enmity is certain to last.

'These Days'

AN EXPERIENCE IN CHARITY

Some months ago, Father Anselm of Graymoor, a Franciscan monk of my acquaintance, came to my house to discuss that surprising hostel where lost men can find a moment in broken lives for retreat and peace. Such charities always need money and Father Anselm suggested that if I wrote a letter, he might raise some. I had never done anything like that before.

While Graymoor never asks a man his religion, his origin, his past, it is a Catholic institution managed by Roman Catholic priests. I am not a Roman Catholic. I am a Jew by religion. Yet, charity can know no sectarianism.

I agreed to write a letter and Father Anselm mailed it out on lists he had. Then I began to receive mail. Some wrote that they regretted that they could not contribute. Some resented that they were solicited by a religion other than their own. The interesting phenomenon is that a great many sent their checks to Graymoor. Taxes, high cost of living and other inequities have not lessened the American grace of charity.

Nor are we a sectarian people. Each of us has his own faith, by birth, by adoption, by association. But the differences of belief should not separate us from each other.

That was the essence of the broad attitude of such a religious leader as Roger Williams in the early years of our people on this continent. He wanted men to have the right to sustain their differences if that meant much to them. As long as we are free to choose our own ways of life, we shall never force others into a spiritual or intellectual bondage.

In no country throughout the long history of my faith have we known a freer and more kindly world than in the United States—even before it became the United States. It is true that occasionally one encounters bigotry and even lunacy, but the whole picture from the middle of the 17th Century until today has been one of liberty to live in the faith of our ancestors. Before that, every other consideration becomes trivial.

And for this equality in the eyes of the law and for the right to live as one chooses, gratitude can best express itself in the warmest cooperation among all of us without regard to sectarian differences. The best way to defeat the forces of evil now stomping through the world lies in this cooperation. Those who stimulate hatred over differences are aiding those who would destroy our civilization of freedom.

My job is to write about the forces and events of these days and that, it may be presumed, has to do with politics and economics and wars. But what happens to man himself? What happens to his personality, his character? In all this welter of words over how governments are to live together in this confused world, we sometimes forget that the most important problem that faces each one of us is how we are to get along with each other and with ourselves.

We all seem to know everything because we can all read and because we listen to millions of words on the radio. But what of the increase of divorce? What of the broken homes—what a silly phrase that? It is not the homes that are broken, but the hearts of little children for whom one flower on the stem of life has withered. What of the young people without guidance who find it so difficult to pass out of the uncertainties of youth to the responsibilities of manhood and womanhood?

These need to be reported as much as a battle in Korea or an error of statesmanship. We need to deal with the corruption of the spirit and the morals of a nation. And not only need we report the evils but the surviving goodness of our people. As long as charity lives in our hearts, we are not a dying people.

May I make this suggestion for the year 1951: That after each of us has contributed to our usual charities, to the Community Chest, the Red Cross and so on, we select one excellent charity of a group to which we do not belong and we give also to that.

That would be the American way—a cooperative way of varied human beings, each of whom retains his own differences while living in friendship with all his neighbors. That would answer the challenge of a classless society in America.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

"TRAP" HEADACHES

I attended a large medical convention some years ago and in the department of eye, ear, nose and throat the subject of headache was discussed by several specialists. While it was admitted that eye strain was a cause of headache in some cases, it was not the commonest cause. At a more recent convention, the speakers were of the opinion that eye strain was, after all, a very common cause.

In Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. J. Bostock states that in an attempt to discover the cause of his own headaches, he first investigated his eyes for errors of refraction. The purchase of glasses with various corrections for his astigmatism had, however, only fleeting effects. Focal infection and intoxication or poisoning from wastes in his blood were then investigated, but despite removal of his tonsils, and purgatives, his headaches continued.

It was suggested to him that the chief cause of his headaches was repressed hate. Repressed hate is related to conflict. There is war in the mind between what he desires and what he can obtain. There is an underlying frustration; the sufferer is in a trap. He wishes to escape but the exits are barred. When this situation arises, the headache appears.

Dr. Bostock gives illustrative examples of "trap" headache and shows that treatment of the emotions by psychotherapy is highly satisfactory. The patient is encouraged to dig down into his inner consciousness and bring to the surface the conflict and its causes. By carefully discussing this conflict and having the patient understand how this conflict causes his headaches, the patient can, by help of the physician or by himself, work out the solution to his problem. The headaches will then disappear.

Now headache, like other aches or symptoms, can be caused by real or organic disease but we must always remember that emotional disturbances, such conflicts of the mind, can cause these same symptoms.

"Trap" headache is not the commonest type of headache but emotional disturbances are a common cause. Indigestion, constipation, sluggish liver and gall bladder, infection are more frequent causes but if investigation shows none of these conditions to be the cause, then the emotional condition should be investigated.

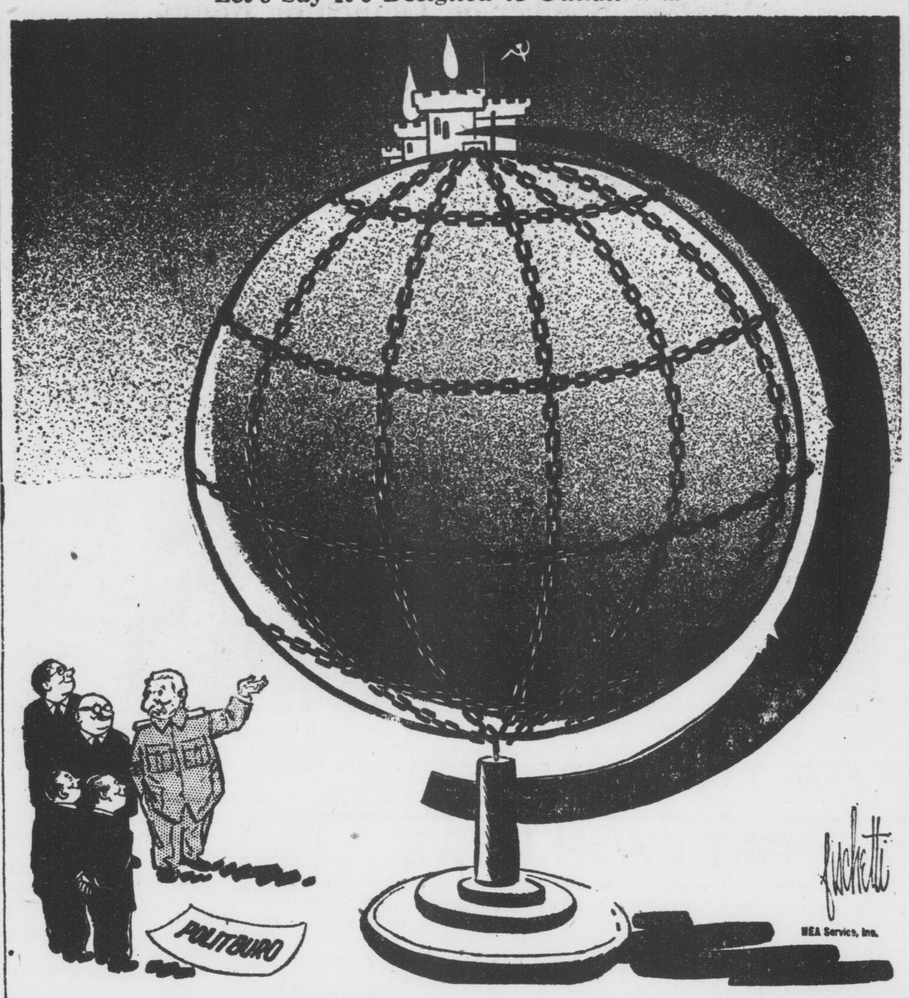
'Let's Say It's Designed to Outlaw War'



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Jovial Mike DiSalle, the price administrator, went down to the White House the other day and broke the news to President Truman that he wanted to retire from his prickly, unpopular price job on December 1.

Truman vigorously demurred. He protested that Mike must stay on, finally agreed only that he would discuss the matter again with DiSalle in November.

During the course of the conversation, the President asked DiSalle what he wanted to do when he went back to private life, and the price administrator replied that he wanted to wait and see what Frank Lausche, the present Democratic governor of Ohio, did. Lausche, who refused to oppose Taft last year, is popular with Republicans and may run against GOP Senator Bricker. But if he doesn't DiSalle told Truman, he would like to run himself.

"When we have a Democratic Senator from Ohio," shot back the President, "let's have a real Democrat. Not a counterfeit like that fellow Lausche."

Huge Loan Stopped

Forty-six million dollars may not seem like a lot of money in these days of huge billion-dollar defense budgets, but several hundred thousand little taxpayers have to chip in their withholding taxes every week to raise it. Furthermore, the proposed $46,000,000 to the Harvey Machine Co. of Los Angeles by the RFC to make aluminum is one of the largest loans considered in the present cold-war period.

Despite this, this bonanza to Harvey was officially recommended on August 28, and has only now been held up because of new information unearthed by this column.

Aforesaid information shows not only that the Harvey Company was recommended by the navy for prosecution for sabotage during the war, but also was in constant hot water with the air force. The sabotage charge was based on Harvey's making of oversized gauges allegedly for the purpose of passing faulty naval shells. And although the charge was not prosecuted, naval authorities expressed the opinion in writing to Washington that the faulty projectiles produced by the Harvey Company were likely to jam guns, travel in erratic courses, or explode prematurely.

The full story of how the Harvey family came within a hair's breadth of getting this huge government loan is one of the most amazing stories of this amazing capital.

Investing in the Democrats

It began shortly after World War 2, when by systematic contributions to the Democratic party, the Harveys "bought in" on the party, first in California, later on the national committee. They also played up local demand for war factories, thus got congressmen from California, Washington and Montana all throwing their weight around for the Harvey loan.

California congressmen were for the Harveys because their plant was located near Los Angeles. Montana congressmen were for the Harveys because the new aluminum plant was to be near the Hungry Horse Dam in Montana. And Washington congressmen were for the Harveys because their alumina plant was to be near Everett.

With this backing, the Harveys camped out in California Congressman King's office as if they owned it, became so insolent with War Assets Administrator Jess Larson that he almost threw Leo Harvey out of the office, and so riled Secretary of the Interior Chapman that he described Harvey as "impossible."

However, each time a government bureau balked at Harvey's terms, he would unloose the Congressional wolves, which came swarming down on the executive branch of the government yelling monopoly and claiming that all government orders were going to three aluminum firms — Alcoa, Reynolds, and Kaiser.

This desire to help little business and to broaden the present semi-monopoly of aluminum was the chief and justifiable reason why men like Jess Larson and Oscar Chapman stuck with the deal.

Chapman, however, almost threw in the sponge when he discovered that his former assistant secretary of the interior, Girard Davidson, was one of the Harvey lobbying team, employed to push through the $46,000,000. Catching his ex-subordinate—then working as a special consultant—buttonholing officials inside the Interior Department, Chapman fired him.

But the most amazing feature of these many months of dickering was that no one inside the government ever thought to check with the army, navy, and air force regarding Harvey's wartime performance. Nor did the armed services take the trouble to warn the RFC, Interior Department, or Defense Mobilization.

Had they done so, they would have discovered not only the damning facts published by this column yesterday, but such notations as that of Commander J. C. Arnold, USN, who was stationed at the Harvey plant during the war:

"The Harvey family has repeatedly put pressure on Navy Department inspectors and were entirely unethical in dealing with the Navy Department," Commander Arnold wrote. He added that he could not induce the company to work on a 24-hour schedule nor on Sundays, despite the navy's need for shells.

Another significant paragraph in government files is a statement by John T. Hughes, personnel manager for Harvey. Interviewed by government inspectors, he stated:

"The Harvey family is a group of individuals who thought they could buy anything or any person."

In the present case, some officials feel that the Harvey Company tried to bulldoze more than buy their way into one of the biggest loans of the cold-war period. For the time being, however, that loan has been stopped.

Any Treaty or Agreement With Russians by U. S. Seems Out the Window

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 19 — The United States government doesn't trust the Soviet government and any thought of a treaty or agreement with the Moscow regime is now officially and formally discarded.

This latest development was revealed by the President of the United States during the course of a speech celebrating the anniversary of the U. S. Constitution. Here are the exact words of the President:

"Their (the Soviet Union's) constitutional guarantees are just as false as their treaty agreements. A Bolshevik agreement is not worth the paper it's written on. It's only a scrap of paper."

The foregoing paragraph was not in the original copy but was interpolated by the President as he spoke, and later was included in the official text as given out by the White House.

The significance of the President's comment is that it brushes away all the ambiguous language that heretofore has been coming from administration spokesmen about the "door being open" to peace agreements with the Russians.

It means also that the mobilization of American military strength is designed primarily to deter aggression and not as a means of ending the present era of tension with a paper agreement the moment the Soviets shift their policy and begin to make gestures in the direction of peace.

What Mr. Truman says raises some interesting questions. One of these is what possible value there can be in the continuance of diplomatic relations with a government whose word on a piece of paper is considered faithless.

In the face of such a situation the continued presence of American diplomats in any of the satellite countries is a squarce of possible complication that could lead to a Third World War. Having imprisoned William Oatis, an American newspaperman in Czechoslovakia, the Communists would not hesitate to imprison any Americans in Prague, Moscow, or in the other Communist capitals.

With the present censorship that exists in the Communist countries, it is questionable what value accrues from maintaining any correspondents there when the chief activity at present is to transmit excerpts from the Communist press or official statements—really a constant flow of Soviet propaganda. All this is readily available by monitoring the Communist radio stations.

As it is, the Soviet maintains a sort of process of intimidation on both American diplomats and American newsmen. One wonders why the American government allows itself and its nationals to remain inside any of the Communist countries. When China was taken over by the Communists, the American government withdrew its consular officials and advised American citizens to withdraw or remain at their own risk.

The time to withdraw American diplomats and newsmen is now—before the Russians begin to manufacture more incidents of the type they have already fabricated in Balkan countries under their control.

If the United States withdrew its diplomats and newsmen, not only would the dangers of a series of "Oatis incidents" be avoided, but the people of Russia would be notified that the rest of the world intended to isolate the Communist regimes and await the day when emancipated governments, truly representative of the people, would take over the power.

The American government, however, is apparently still timid about offending the Moscow regime by acts of severance. Despite the strong words from the President, there is a fear here in official quarters that Russia might be offended or perhaps that the other members of the UN who insist on trading with the Communists might not concur. The influence of "left-wing" groups in Britain and France is nowadays adequate to block forthright policies by the governments of those countries. The Communists are certainly gaining in power through political methods and very little is being done from the anti-Communist side to oppose this attitude except to build up potential armies and navies and air forces. Military force grows as moral force is neglected.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 18 — Angela Calomiris, the New York girl who joined the Communist party as a spy for the FBI and testified for the government in the historic trial of the eleven leading officials of the party, is a professional news photographer. As to whether she is better or worse than Margaret Bourke-White, who has been an editor and a staff photographer for Life, Time and Fortune, publications of Henry (China-boy) Luce, there may be difference of opinion.

The Communists have been influential in building reputations in the "cultural" fields. Margaret Bourke-White has been one of their favorites for years. Angela Calomiris certainly is competent and patriotic, and recently has been commended by commandants of important posts in the army, the marines and the navy for photographs which she made for the American Legion magazine.

Miss Calomiris says that when she went to interview John Morris, the picture editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, a Curtis publication of old prestige, he insulted her and turned her down absolutely.

The Ladies' Home Journal cleverly turned political and supported the New Deal during the long reign of Eleanor Roosevelt as queen of the magazine. Morris admits that he lectured twice at the Photo League, of New York, which is on the attorney general's official list of "subversive" organizations. He also admits that, after Angela testified against the eleven plotters against the security of the United States, he told her he would not give her any assignments because "one of the things we demanded here was a sense of trust and she was guilty of deception" in spying on the Communists.

Miss Calomiris says she received an apology from Bruce Gould, the editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, himself an extreme New Dealer whose political views have affected the contents of the magazine for years.

James O'Neill, the editor of the American Legion magazine, and Frank Lisiecki, his assistant, initiated the protest. They communicated with the National Association of Magazine Publishers and were referred to Walter Fuller, chairman of the board of Curtis Publishing Co. Fuller suggested that they take the issue to Gould, and Lisiecki related that he and O'Neill did call on Gould.

"He (Gould) said Morris was fuzzy-headed but not a Communist," Lisiecki said. "Gould agreed to see Angela and she told him she wouldn't take any work from the Ladies' Home Journal if it was the last magazine on earth. She has suffered a great deal for her patriotism in spying on the Communists and testifying against them. She has gotten a pushing-around from magazine editors. She is a good photographer. She is business-like and behaves herself well. Our editors came back from their assignments with her with the highest praise."

Margaret Bourke-White, like Morris, was associated with the Photo League, being cited in two connections with it in the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. She has been cited in many other connections, as well.

Within the last few weeks China-Boy Luce's life published many intimate photographs of the highly secret fast American bomber, the B-47, of the B-36 and a fast jet reconnaissance plane with its camera equipment laid out in distinct array, all made by Miss Bourke-White.

While protests over this were being recorded with the secretary of defense (Marshall) and with Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, the chief of the air force, by Senators Jenner of Indiana and Cain of Washington, Miss Bourke-White went up in a navy helicopter over Chesapeake Bay. The helicopter dipped into the water and the mission failed. Senator Cain said the secretary of the navy demanded "security risk" assurances from life in any further missions.

Miss Calomiris says that it was through the Photo League that she was recruited into the Communist party. She says Morris "squawked" when the league was cited by the attorney-general as a subversive Communist front and signed a formal protest. Morris insisted that he had lectured only twice before the league and had no inkling that it was a front. Miss Calomiris said:

"Over a period of years he has been down there at least five times that I know of. He spoke to the league last December or January. He is a very slick character. He knows and reads every-

WAR CAN BE AVERTED

Rarely does Dr. James Bryant Conant of Harvard speak publicly without stirring the mind and conscience of the nation.

Amid the clamor of voices shouting that a third world war is inevitable, Conant offers a calmer counsel. He declares that war can be averted, albeit by only "the narrowest of margins."

Though Conant is a scientist, he is also an astute observer of world affairs. His forecasts are never reckless but always informed and careful.

For the next decade at least, he sees no release from the constant strain of war threat. But he still believes the great storm will not descend. Time and again, he is convinced, one or the other of the major antagonists will hold back because their military leaders won't be able to guarantee final success.

This will be so, says Conant, because the United States and Russia will be in such relative balance militarily that neither can hope for crushing advantage. He sees this stalemate as prelude to a "great settlement" after the 1960's get under way. And he believes a period of genuine peace may then be ushered in.

Conant's crystal ball tells him it is the West's renewal of its armament which creates a stalemate and sets the stage for an accord. Not the "magic of atomic bombs" but balanced military forces enable the Western powers to equate their strength with Russia's.

In fact, he clearly thinks the atomic bomb and the whole concept of atomic energy is being vastly overplayed by generals, statesmen and scientists alike. It's his view that as time passes nations will see the bomb as more a liability than an asset.

Future scientists, he says, may look back on the 1940's not as the period when atomic energy came into use but the time when certain tools were devised which assisted toward the ultimate use of solar energy. It is this to which Conant turns as the likeliest source of unlimited cheap power in the decades ahead.

Conant's sharply reasoned perspective on our future should arouse hope in many hearts. But it must be noted that he is not counseling laxity in defense. On the contrary: he sees the avoidance of war as the direct consequence of really adequate preparedness.

"Frontiers must be protected against invasion by human beings ready to die if necessary," he says. "And those frontiers are for us in the United States the world frontiers of freedom."

The tempered tones of a Conant are the perfect prescription for America in a time when men are moved either to wax hysterical over our peril, or to take the even worse course of ignoring their danger. Conant does neither; yet he does not see war.

BLUNDER IN MOSCOW

One mystery hidden by the Iron Curtain concerns the fate of those Kremlin advisers who recommended the Korean war. They have predicted that the United States would not fight, or at least not effectively. No prediction could have been more wrong.

In addition to stirring up America, the Communist aggression has advanced the rearmament of Western Europe as no other recent development has done. The whole is a serious setback for Russia, and is plainly a Communist blunder.

In the Soviet Union blunders are not committed without a penalty. There are too many aspirants for power who are only too willing to point out the mistakes of a rival.

INSECTICIDE PARATHION

New York State residents have been warned by the State Health Department to take extreme precautions against poisoning by the insecticide parathion. The solution in many cases is used for spraying gardens and farm fields.

The solution is so highly toxic that people who have walked through fields as much as 48 hours after spraying have become dangerously ill. The warning was issued after district health officers from several counties in the state reported that farm workers had suffered illnesses after working in sprayed fields.

A few years ago Germany and Japan were our worst enemies. Now we are counting on their aid. It seems to be one of the lessons of history that no international friendship nor enmity is certain to last.

'These Days'

AN EXPERIENCE IN CHARITY

Some months ago, Father Anselm of Graymoor, a Franciscan monk of my acquaintance, came to my house to discuss that surprising hostel where lost men can find a moment in broken lives for retreat and peace. Such charities always need money and Father Anselm suggested that if I wrote a letter, he might raise some. I had never done anything like that before.

While Graymoor never asks a man his religion, his origin, his past, it is a Catholic institution managed by Roman Catholic priests. I am not a Roman Catholic. I am a Jew by religion. Yet, charity can know no sectarianism.

I agreed to write a letter and Father Anselm mailed it out on lists he had. Then I began to receive mail. Some wrote that they regretted that they could not contribute. Some resented that they were solicited by a religion other than their own. The interesting phenomenon is that a great many sent their checks to Graymoor. Taxes, high cost of living and other inequities have not lessened the American grace of charity.

Nor are we a sectarian people. Each of us has his own faith, by birth, by adoption, by association. But the differences of belief should not separate us from each other.

That was the essence of the broad attitude of such a religious leader as Roger Williams in the early years of our people on this continent. He wanted men to have the right to sustain their differences if that meant much to them. As long as we are free to choose our own ways of life, we shall never force others into a spiritual or intellectual bondage.

In no country throughout the long history of my faith have we known a freer and more kindly world than in the United States—even before it became the United States. It is true that occasionally one encounters bigotry and even lunacy, but the whole picture from the middle of the 17th Century until today has been one of liberty to live in the faith of our ancestors. Before that, every other consideration becomes trivial.

And for this equality in the eyes of the law and for the right to live as one chooses, gratitude can best express itself in the warmest cooperation among all of us without regard to sectarian differences. The best way to defeat the forces of evil now stomping through the world lies in this cooperation. Those who stimulate hatred over differences are aiding those who would destroy our civilization of freedom.

My job is to write about the forces and events of these days and that, it may be presumed, has to do with politics and economics and wars. But what happens to man himself? What happens to his personality, his character? In all this welter of words over how governments are to live together in this confused world, we sometimes forget that the most important problem that faces each one of us is how we are to get along with each other and with ourselves.

We all seem to know everything because we can all read and because we listen to millions of words on the radio. But what of the increase of divorce? What of the broken homes—what a silly phrase that? It is not the homes that are broken, but the hearts of little children for whom one flower on the stem of life has withered. What of the young people without guidance who find it so difficult to pass out of the uncertainties of youth to the responsibilities of manhood and womanhood?

These need to be reported as much as a battle in Korea or an error of statesmanship. We need to deal with the corruption of the spirit and the morals of a nation. And not only need we report the evils but the surviving goodness of our people. As long as charity lives in our hearts, we are not a dying people.

May I make this suggestion for the year 1951: That after each of us has contributed to our usual charities, to the Community Chest, the Red Cross and so on, we select one excellent charity of a group to which we do not belong and we give also to that.

That would be the American way—a cooperative way of varied human beings, each of whom retains his own differences while living in friendship with all his neighbors. That would answer the challenge of a classless society in America.

That Body of Yours

"TRAP" HEADACHES

I attended a large medical convention some years ago and in the department of eye, ear, nose and throat the subject of headache was discussed by several specialists. While it was admitted that eye strain was a cause of headache in some cases, it was not the commonest cause. At a more recent convention, the speakers were of the opinion that eye strain was, after all, a very common cause.

In Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. J. Bostock states that in an attempt to discover the cause of his own headaches, he first investigated his eyes for errors of refraction. The purchase of glasses with various corrections for his astigmatism had, however, only fleeting effects. Focal infection and intoxication or poisoning from wastes in his blood were then investigated, but despite removal of his tonsils, and purgatives, his headaches continued.

It was suggested to him that the chief cause of his headaches was repressed hate. Repressed hate is related to conflict. There is war in the mind between what he desires and what he can obtain. There is an underlying frustration; the sufferer is in a trap. He wishes to escape but the exits are barred. When this situation arises, the headache appears.

Dr. Bostock gives illustrative examples of "trap" headache and shows that treatment of the emotions by psychotherapy is highly satisfactory. The patient is encouraged to dig down into his inner consciousness and bring to the surface the conflict and its causes. By carefully discussing this conflict and having the patient understand how this conflict causes his headaches, the patient can, by help of the physician or by himself, work out the solution to his problem. The headaches will then disappear.

Now headache, like other aches or symptoms, can be caused by real or organic disease but we must always remember that emotional disturbances, such conflicts of the mind, can cause these same symptoms.

"Trap" headache is not the commonest type of headache but emotional disturbances are a common cause. Indigestion, constipation, sluggish liver and gall bladder, infection are more frequent causes but if investigation shows none of these conditions to be the cause, then the emotional condition should be investigated.

'Let's Say It's Designed to Outlaw War'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Jovial Mike DiSalle, the price administrator, went down to the White House the other day and broke the news to President Truman that he wanted to retire from his prickly, unpopular price job on December 1.

Truman vigorously demurred. He protested that Mike must stay on, finally agreed only that he would discuss the matter again with DiSalle in November.

During the course of the conversation, the President asked DiSalle what he wanted to do when he went back to private life, and the price administrator replied that he wanted to wait and see what Frank Lausche, the present Democratic governor of Ohio, did. Lausche, who refused to oppose Taft last year, is popular with Republicans and may run against GOP Senator Bricker. But if he doesn't DiSalle told Truman, he would like to run himself.

"When we have a Democratic Senator from Ohio," shot back the President, "let's have a real Democrat. Not a counterfeit like that fellow Lausche."

Huge Loan Stopped

Forty-six million dollars may not seem like a lot of money in these days of huge billion-dollar defense budgets, but several hundred thousand little taxpayers have to chip in their withholding taxes every week to raise it. Furthermore, the proposed $46,000,000 to the Harvey Machine Co. of Los Angeles by the RFC to make aluminum is one of the largest loans considered in the present cold-war period.

Despite this, this bonanza to Harvey was officially recommended on August 28, and has only now been held up because of new information unearthed by this column.

Aforesaid information shows not only that the Harvey Company was recommended by the navy for prosecution for sabotage during the war, but also was in constant hot water with the air force. The sabotage charge was based on Harvey's making of oversized gauges allegedly for the purpose of passing faulty naval shells. And although the charge was not prosecuted, naval authorities expressed the opinion in writing to Washington that the faulty projectiles produced by the Harvey Company were likely to jam guns, travel in erratic courses, or explode prematurely.

As it is, the Soviet maintains a sort of process of intimidation on both American diplomats and American newsmen. One wonders why the American government allows itself and its nationals to remain inside any of the Communist countries. When China was taken over by the Communists, the American government withdrew its consular officials and advised American citizens to withdraw or remain at their own risk.

The time to withdraw American diplomats and newsmen is now—before the Russians begin to manufacture more incidents of the type they have already fabricated in Balkan countries under their control.

If the United States withdrew its diplomats and newsmen, not only would the dangers of a series of "Oatis incidents" be avoided, but the people of Russia would be notified that the rest of the world intended to isolate the Communist regimes and await the day when emancipated governments, truly representative of the people, would take over the power.

The American government, however, is apparently still timid about offending the Moscow regime by acts of severance. Despite the strong words from the President, there is a fear here in official quarters that Russia might be offended or perhaps that the other members of the UN who insist on trading with the Communists might not concur. The influence of "left-wing" groups in Britain and France is nowadays adequate to block forthright policies by the governments of those countries. The Communists are certainly gaining in power through political methods and very little is being done from the anti-Communist side to oppose this attitude except to build up potential armies and navies and air forces. Military force grows as moral force is neglected.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 18 — Angela Calomiris, the New York girl who joined the Communist party as a spy for the FBI and testified for the government in the historic trial of the eleven leading officials of the party, is a professional news photographer. As to whether she is better or worse than Margaret Bourke-White, who has been an editor and a staff photographer for Life, Time and Fortune, publications of Henry (China-boy) Luce, there may be difference of opinion.

The Communists have been influential in building reputations in the "cultural" fields. Margaret Bourke-White has been one of their favorites for years. Angela Calomiris certainly is competent and patriotic, and recently has been commended by commandants of important posts in the army, the marines and the navy for photographs which she made for the American Legion magazine.

Miss Calomiris says that when she went to interview John Morris, the picture editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, a Curtis publication of old prestige, he insulted her and turned her down absolutely.

The Ladies' Home Journal cleverly turned political and supported the New Deal during the long reign of Eleanor Roosevelt as queen of the magazine. Morris admits that he lectured twice at the Photo League, of New York, which is on the attorney general's official list of "subversive" organizations. He also admits that, after Angela testified against the eleven plotters against the security of the United States, he told her he would not give her any assignments because "one of the things we demanded here was a sense of trust and she was guilty of deception" in spying on the Communists.

Miss Calomiris says she received an apology from Bruce Gould, the editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, himself an extreme New Dealer whose political views have affected the contents of the magazine for years.

James O'Neill, the editor of the American Legion magazine, and Frank Lisiecki, his assistant, initiated the protest. They communicated with the National Association of Magazine Publishers and were referred to Walter Fuller, chairman of the board of Curtis Publishing Co. Fuller suggested that they take the issue to Gould, and Lisiecki related that he and O'Neill did call on Gould.

"He (Gould) said Morris was fuzzy-headed but not a Communist," Lisiecki said. "Gould agreed to see Angela and she told him she wouldn't take any work from the Ladies' Home Journal if it was the last magazine on earth. She has suffered a great deal for her patriotism in spying on the Communists and testifying against them. She has gotten a pushing-around from magazine editors. She is a good photographer. She is business-like and behaves herself well. Our editors came back from their assignments with her with the highest praise."

Margaret Bourke-White, like Morris, was associated with the Photo League, being cited in two connections with it in the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. She has been cited in many other connections, as well.

Within the last few weeks China-Boy Luce's life published many intimate photographs of the highly secret fast American bomber, the B-47, of the B-36 and a fast jet reconnaissance plane with its camera equipment laid out in distinct array, all made by Miss Bourke-White.

While protests over this were being recorded with the secretary of defense (Marshall) and with Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, the chief of the air force, by Senators Jenner of Indiana and Cain of Washington, Miss Bourke-White went up in a navy helicopter over Chesapeake Bay. The helicopter dipped into the water and the mission failed. Senator Cain said the secretary of the navy demanded "security risk" assurances from life in any further missions.

Miss Calomiris says that it was through the Photo League that she was recruited into the Communist party. She says Morris "squawked" when the league was cited by the attorney-general as a subversive Communist front and signed a formal protest. Morris insisted that he had lectured only twice before the league and had no inkling that it was a front. Miss Calomiris said:

"Over a period of years he has been down there at least five times that I know of. He spoke to the league last December or January. He is a very slick character. He knows and reads every-

WAR CAN BE AVERTED

Rarely does Dr. James Bryant Conant of Harvard speak publicly without stirring the mind and conscience of the nation.

Amid the clamor of voices shouting that a third world war is inevitable, Conant offers a calmer counsel. He declares that war can be averted, albeit by only "the narrowest of margins."

Though Conant is a scientist, he is also an astute observer of world affairs. His forecasts are never reckless but always informed and careful.

For the next decade at least, he sees no release from the constant strain of war threat. But he still believes the great storm will not descend. Time and again, he is convinced, one or the other of the major antagonists will hold back because their military leaders won't be able to guarantee final success.

This will be so, says Conant, because the United States and Russia will be in such relative balance militarily that neither can hope for crushing advantage. He sees this stalemate as prelude to a "great settlement" after the 1960's get under way. And he believes a period of genuine peace may then be ushered in.

Conant's crystal ball tells him it is the West's renewal of its armament which creates a stalemate and sets the stage for an accord. Not the "magic of atomic bombs" but balanced military forces enable the Western powers to equate their strength with Russia's.

In fact, he clearly thinks the atomic bomb and the whole concept of atomic energy is being vastly overplayed by generals, statesmen and scientists alike. It's his view that as time passes nations will see the bomb as more a liability than an asset.

Future scientists, he says, may look back on the 1940's not as the period when atomic energy came into use but the time when certain tools were devised which assisted toward the ultimate use of solar energy. It is this to which Conant turns as the likeliest source of unlimited cheap power in the decades ahead.

Conant's sharply reasoned perspective on our future should arouse hope in many hearts. But it must be noted that he is not counseling laxity in defense. On the contrary: he sees the avoidance of war as the direct consequence of really adequate preparedness.

"Frontiers must be protected against invasion by human beings ready to die if necessary," he says. "And those frontiers are for us in the United States the world frontiers of freedom."

The tempered tones of a Conant are the perfect prescription for America in a time when men are moved either to wax hysterical over our peril, or to take the even worse course of ignoring their danger. Conant does neither; yet he does not see war.

BLUNDER IN MOSCOW

One mystery hidden by the Iron Curtain concerns the fate of those Kremlin advisers who recommended the Korean war. They have predicted that the United States would not fight, or at least not effectively. No prediction could have been more wrong.

In addition to stirring up America, the Communist aggression has advanced the rearmament of Western Europe as no other recent development has done. The whole is a serious setback for Russia, and is plainly a Communist blunder.

In the Soviet Union blunders are not committed without a penalty. There are too many aspirants for power who are only too willing to point out the mistakes of a rival.

INSECTICIDE PARATHION

New York State residents have been warned by the State Health Department to take extreme precautions against poisoning by the insecticide parathion. The solution in many cases is used for spraying gardens and farm fields.

The solution is so highly toxic that people who have walked through fields as much as 48 hours after spraying have become dangerously ill. The warning was issued after district health officers from several counties in the state reported that farm workers had suffered illnesses after working in sprayed fields.

A few years ago Germany and Japan were our worst enemies. Now we are counting on their aid. It seems to be one of the lessons of history that no international friendship nor enmity is certain to last.

'These Days'

AN EXPERIENCE IN CHARITY

Some months ago, Father Anselm of Graymoor, a Franciscan monk of my acquaintance, came to my house to discuss that surprising hostel where lost men can find a moment in broken lives for retreat and peace. Such charities always need money and Father Anselm suggested that if I wrote a letter, he might raise some. I had never done anything like that before.

While Graymoor never asks a man his religion, his origin, his past, it is a Catholic institution managed by Roman Catholic priests. I am not a Roman Catholic. I am a Jew by religion. Yet, charity can know no sectarianism.

I agreed to write a letter and Father Anselm mailed it out on lists he had. Then I began to receive mail. Some wrote that they regretted that they could not contribute. Some resented that they were solicited by a religion other than their own. The interesting phenomenon is that a great many sent their checks to Graymoor. Taxes, high cost of living and other inequities have not lessened the American grace of charity.

Nor are we a sectarian people. Each of us has his own faith, by birth, by adoption, by association. But the differences of belief should not separate us from each other.

That was the essence of the broad attitude of such a religious leader as Roger Williams in the early years of our people on this continent. He wanted men to have the right to sustain their differences if that meant much to them. As long as we are free to choose our own ways of life, we shall never force others into a spiritual or intellectual bondage.

In no country throughout the long history of my faith have we known a freer and more kindly world than in the United States—even before it became the United States. It is true that occasionally one encounters bigotry and even lunacy, but the whole picture from the middle of the 17th Century until today has been one of liberty to live in the faith of our ancestors. Before that, every other consideration becomes trivial.

And for this equality in the eyes of the law and for the right to live as one chooses, gratitude can best express itself in the warmest cooperation among all of us without regard to sectarian differences. The best way to defeat the forces of evil now stomping through the world lies in this cooperation. Those who stimulate hatred over differences are aiding those who would destroy our civilization of freedom.

My job is to write about the forces and events of these days and that, it may be presumed, has to do with politics and economics and wars. But what happens to man himself? What happens to his personality, his character? In all this welter of words over how governments are to live together in this confused world, we sometimes forget that the most important problem that faces each one of us is how we are to get along with each other and with ourselves.

We all seem to know everything because we can all read and because we listen to millions of words on the radio. But what of the increase of divorce? What of the broken homes—what a silly phrase that? It is not the homes that are broken, but the hearts of little children for whom one flower on the stem of life has withered. What of the young people without guidance who find it so difficult to pass out of the uncertainties of youth to the responsibilities of manhood and womanhood?

These need to be reported as much as a battle in Korea or an error of statesmanship. We need to deal with the corruption of the spirit and the morals of a nation. And not only need we report the evils but the surviving goodness of our people. As long as charity lives in our hearts, we are not a dying people.

May I make this suggestion for the year 1951: That after each of us has contributed to our usual charities, to the Community Chest, the Red Cross and so on, we select one excellent charity of a group to which we do not belong and we give also to that.

That would be the American way—a cooperative way of varied human beings, each of whom retains his own differences while living in friendship with all his neighbors. That would answer the challenge of a classless society in America.

That Body of Yours

"TRAP" HEADACHES

I attended a large medical convention some years ago and in the department of eye, ear, nose and throat the subject of headache was discussed by several specialists. While it was admitted that eye strain was a cause of headache in some cases, it was not the commonest cause. At a more recent convention, the speakers were of the opinion that eye strain was, after all, a very common cause.

In Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. J. Bostock states that in an attempt to discover the cause of his own headaches, he first investigated his eyes for errors of refraction. The purchase of glasses with various corrections for his astigmatism had, however, only fleeting effects. Focal infection and intoxication or poisoning from wastes in his blood were then investigated, but despite removal of his tonsils, and purgatives, his headaches continued.

It was suggested to him that the chief cause of his headaches was repressed hate. Repressed hate is related to conflict. There is war in the mind between what he desires and what he can obtain. There is an underlying frustration; the sufferer is in a trap. He wishes to escape but the exits are barred. When this situation arises, the headache appears.

Dr. Bostock gives illustrative examples of "trap" headache and shows that treatment of the emotions by psychotherapy is highly satisfactory. The patient is encouraged to dig down into his inner consciousness and bring to the surface the conflict and its causes. By carefully discussing this conflict and having the patient understand how this conflict causes his headaches, the patient can, by help of the physician or by himself, work out the solution to his problem. The headaches will then disappear.

Now headache, like other aches or symptoms, can be caused by real or organic disease but we must always remember that emotional disturbances, such conflicts of the mind, can cause these same symptoms.

"Trap" headache is not the commonest type of headache but emotional disturbances are a common cause. Indigestion, constipation, sluggish liver and gall bladder, infection are more frequent causes but if investigation shows none of these conditions to be the cause, then the emotional condition should be investigated.

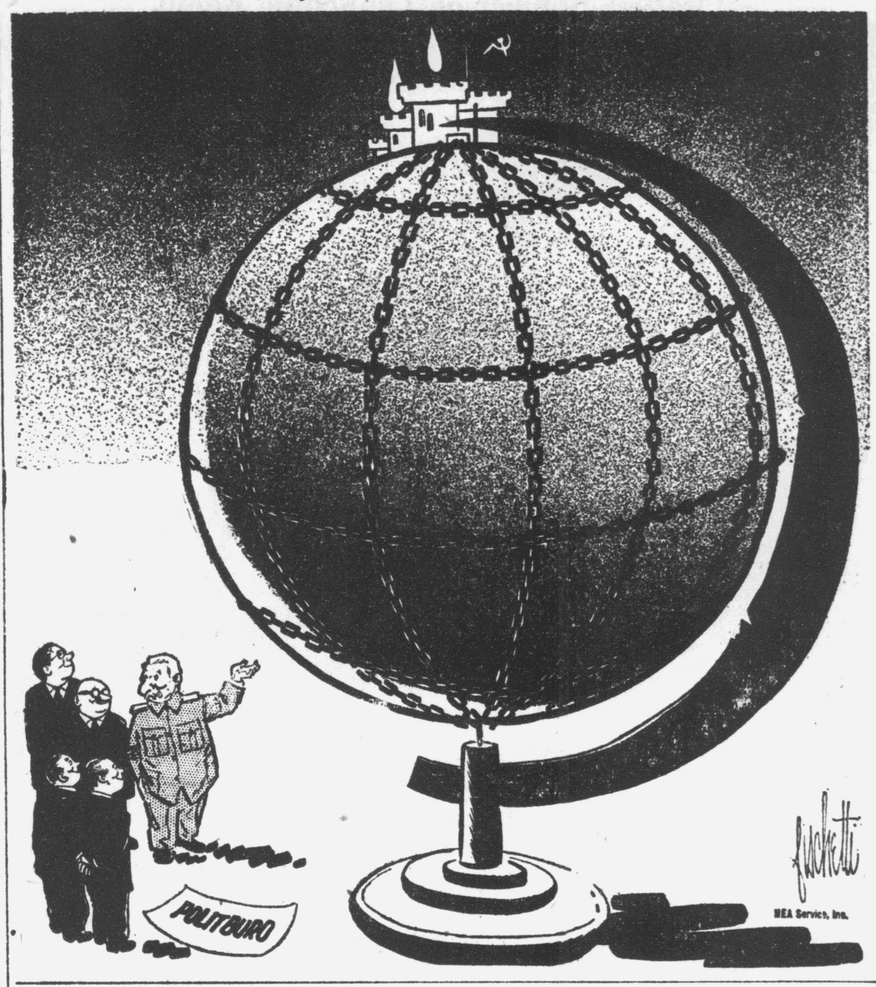
'Let's Say It's Designed to Outlaw War'



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Jovial Mike DiSalle, the price administrator, went down to the White House the other day and broke the news to President Truman that he wanted to retire from his prickly, unpopular price job on December 1.

Truman vigorously demurred. He protested that Mike must stay on, finally agreed only that he would discuss the matter again with DiSalle in November.

During the course of the conversation, the President asked DiSalle what he wanted to do when he went back to private life, and the price administrator replied that he wanted to wait and see what Frank Lausche, the present Democratic governor of Ohio, did. Lausche, who refused to oppose Taft last year, is popular with Republicans and may run against GOP Senator Bricker. But if he doesn't DiSalle told Truman, he would like to run himself.

"When we have a Democratic Senator from Ohio," shot back the President, "let's have a real Democrat. Not a counterfeit like that fellow Lausche."

Huge Loan Stopped

Forty-six million dollars may not seem like a lot of money in these days of huge billion-dollar defense budgets, but several hundred thousand little taxpayers have to chip in their withholding taxes every week to raise it. Furthermore, the proposed $46,000,000 to the Harvey Machine Co. of Los Angeles by the RFC to make aluminum is one of the largest loans considered in the present cold-war period.

Despite this, this bonanza to Harvey was officially recommended on August 28, and has only now been held up because of new information unearthed by this column.

Aforesaid information shows not only that the Harvey Company was recommended by the navy for prosecution for sabotage during the war, but also was in constant hot water with the air force. The sabotage charge was based on Harvey's making of oversized gauges allegedly for the purpose of passing faulty naval shells. And although the charge was not prosecuted, naval authorities expressed the opinion in writing to Washington that the faulty projectiles produced by the Harvey Company were likely to jam guns, travel in erratic courses, or explode prematurely.

The full story of how the Harvey family came within a hair's breadth of getting this huge government loan is one of the most amazing stories of this amazing capital.

Investing in the Democrats

It began shortly after World War 2, when by systematic contributions to the Democratic party, the Harveys "bought in" on the party, first in California, later on the national committee. They also played up local demand for war factories, thus got congressmen from California, Washington and Montana all throwing their weight around for the Harvey loan.

California congressmen were for the Harveys because their plant was located near Los Angeles. Montana congressmen were for the Harveys because the new aluminum plant was to be near the Hungry Horse Dam in Montana. And Washington congressmen were for the Harveys because their alumina plant was to be near Everett.

With this backing, the Harveys camped out in California Congressman King's office as if they owned it, became so insolent with War Assets Administrator Jess Larson that he almost threw Leo Harvey out of the office, and so riled Secretary of the Interior Chapman that he described Harvey as "impossible."

However, each time a government bureau balked at Harvey's terms, he would unloose the Congressional wolves, which came swarming down on the executive branch of the government yelling monopoly and claiming that all government orders were going to three aluminum firms — Alcoa, Reynolds, and Kaiser.

This desire to help little business and to broaden the present semi-monopoly of aluminum was the chief and justifiable reason why men like Jess Larson and Oscar Chapman stuck with the deal.

Chapman, however, almost threw in the sponge when he discovered that his former assistant secretary of the interior, Girard Davidson, was one of the Harvey lobbying team, employed to push through the $46,000,000. Catching his ex-subordinate—then working as a special consultant—buttonholing officials inside the Interior Department, Chapman fired him.

But the most amazing feature of these many months of dickering was that no one inside the government ever thought to check with the army, navy, and air force regarding Harvey's wartime performance. Nor did the armed services take the trouble to warn the RFC, Interior Department, or Defense Mobilization.

Had they done so, they would have discovered not only the damning facts published by this column yesterday, but such notations as that of Commander J. C. Arnold, USN, who was stationed at the Harvey plant during the war:

"The Harvey family has repeatedly put pressure on Navy Department inspectors and were entirely unethical in dealing with the Navy Department," Commander Arnold wrote. He added that he could not induce the company to work on a 24-hour schedule nor on Sundays, despite the navy's need for shells.

Another significant paragraph in government files is a statement by John T. Hughes, personnel manager for Harvey. Interviewed by government inspectors, he stated:

"The Harvey family is a group of individuals who thought they could buy anything or any person."

In the present case, some officials feel that the Harvey Company tried to bulldoze more than buy their way into one of the biggest loans of the cold-war period. For the time being, however, that loan has been stopped.

Any Treaty or Agreement With Russians by U. S. Seems Out the Window

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 19 — The United States government doesn't trust the Soviet government and any thought of a treaty or agreement with the Moscow regime is now officially and formally discarded.

This latest development was revealed by the President of the United States during the course of a speech celebrating the anniversary of the U. S. Constitution. Here are the exact words of the President:

"Their (the Soviet Union's) constitutional guarantees are just as false as their treaty agreements. A Bolshevik agreement is not worth the paper it's written on. It's only a scrap of paper."

The foregoing paragraph was not in the original copy but was interpolated by the President as he spoke, and later was included in the official text as given out by the White House.

The significance of the President's comment is that it brushes away all the ambiguous language that heretofore has been coming from administration spokesmen about the "door being open" to peace agreements with the Russians.

It means also that the mobilization of American military strength is designed primarily to deter aggression and not as a means of ending the present era of tension with a paper agreement the moment the Soviets shift their policy and begin to make gestures in the direction of peace.

What Mr. Truman says raises some interesting questions. One of these is what possible value there can be in the continuance of diplomatic relations with a government whose word on a piece of paper is considered faithless.

In the face of such a situation the continued presence of American diplomats in any of the satellite countries is a squarce of possible complication that could lead to a Third World War. Having imprisoned William Oatis, an American newspaperman in Czechoslovakia, the Communists would not hesitate to imprison any Americans in Prague, Moscow, or in the other Communist capitals.

With the present censorship that exists in the Communist countries, it is questionable what value accrues from maintaining any correspondents there when the chief activity at present is to transmit excerpts from the Communist press or official statements—really a constant flow of Soviet propaganda. All this is readily available by monitoring the Communist radio stations.

As it is, the Soviet maintains a sort of process of intimidation on both American diplomats and American newsmen. One wonders why the American government allows itself and its nationals to remain inside any of the Communist countries. When China was taken over by the Communists, the American government withdrew its consular officials and advised American citizens to withdraw or remain at their own risk.

The time to withdraw American diplomats and newsmen is now—before the Russians begin to manufacture more incidents of the type they have already fabricated in Balkan countries under their control.

A—It depends upon the locomotive, the weather, the train load and other factors, but the average freight locomotive consumes approximately one ton of coal for each seven miles of travel.

Peculiar Music

Calypso is a peculiar type of music developed by Negro minstrels of Trinidad. Calypso songs, accompanied by the guitar, were sung by the Negroes in a French patois interspersed with Spanish idioms or in English with an odd British accent.

Probation System Explained to Lions

How the probation system contributes to the economical well-being of the county was explained by Edmund U. Burhans, chief probation officer, at a meeting of the Kingston Lions Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday.

"It is cheaper to keep a man on probation—provided he can be rehabilitated—than to send him to an institution," Burhans said.

He pointed out that in many cases a prisoner's family must be cared for by the welfare department when he is incarcerated. If placed on probation, however, the man must find employment and contribute to the support of a family as one of the conditions of probation, he pointed out.

Explaining the functions of his office in cases of estrangement or of children born out of wedlock, Burhans revealed collections toward the support of families total approximately $4,000 a month.

"As a matter of dollars and cents, I believe probation pays," Burhans said.

Dick Kahn was unquestionably the star of the recent national tournament held by the American Contract Bridge League in Washington. The young New York expert was a member of the team that won the Mixed Team championship, played on a different team that got to the semi-final round of the Open Team championship, and won the Master's Pair championship with Peter Leventritt. He'll need an extra room at his Card School just to hold the trophies.

One reason for his success is that he is a very accurate bidder. The hand shown today is taken from one of the early rounds of the team championship. The other team climbed all the way up to one no-trump and then collapsed. When the dummy came down the declarer discovered that he had missed a game.

As usual in such cases, there was much recrimination. North said he had made one try for a game by bidding his four-card major rather than his five-card minor; but that he couldn't bid twice with only two kings unless South made a jump bid. And South said he couldn't make a jump bid because North might have a completely worthless hand. And so it went.

When Kahn and Leventritt held the same cards, the bidding began in the same way, but it did not die at one no-trump. Pete Leventritt knew it was both safe and important to bid again with the North hand because Kahn obviously had a very strong hand.

The reasoning was very simple. If South held an ordinary no-trumper (just like an opening no-trump bid), he would have bid one no-trump right over one heart. If he had less than an opening no-trump bid he would have passed the response of one spade.

Kahn's only reason for doubling first and then bidding one no-trump was to show a hand that was too strong for an immediate bid of one no-trump but not strong enough for a jump to two no-trump.

Opposite such a strong hand, North's two kings were probably enough for game. Hence Leventritt went to two diamonds over one no-trump. Kahn then jumped to three spades, indicating a strong hand with only three-card support for spades. (With four-card support, he would have raised spades immediately instead of bidding no-trump). Leventritt then went to three no-trump.

With the club finesse working there was little trouble making the game. Kahn won two hearts, three spades, two diamonds, and two clubs.

Tennis Equipment Sought in City

The Kingston Recreation Committee announced today that it is launching a campaign for donations of tennis racquets and skates for distribution to children who have not the means to obtain them.

The drive includes the distribution of 1,000 posters advertising the committee's needs. The committee asks that the skates and racquets be in reparable condition and requests that those making donations leave them at the Wiltwyck fire station on Fair street, Central station on East O'Reilly street or Cornell fire station on Cornell street.

A spokesman for the committee said that many people have unused skates and tennis racquets in attics and cellars. If these are contributed, he said, it will mean that many of the city's youngsters who stand and watch others play, will have their chance to be active participants in tennis and skating.

Train Service Crippled

Rome, Sept. 19 (AP)—A 24-hour wage strike of government employes crippled train service on Italy's state-owned railways today and affected mail, telephone and telegraph services. More than 1,000,000 workers began the strike at a minute past midnight. It is the second strike of state employes in four months. Last May, all except railway workers staged a similar strike. Communist, anti-Communist and independent unions joined in today's call. The government proposed a flat wage increase of about $2.20 a month on salaries that range upward on a complicated scale from the equivalent of about $50. It also proposed cost of living and family allowance increases. The workers demanded about $6.20 a month more than the proposed new wage scale.

Equivalency Is In Fifth Year

Equivalency testing, a program sponsored by the New York State Department of Education which enables residents of the state who have reached their 21st birthday to receive a diploma if they satisfactorily pass a battery of examinations, has just completed its fourth year according to Irving J. Fersh. Fersh is director of guidance at the Poughkeepsie public schools and supervisor in charge of the program for Dutchess, Ulster and Putnam counties.

Equivalency diplomas are equivalent to high school diplomas. Individuals beneath the age limit may also take the tests if their results are needed for entrance into the armed services, or into institutions of higher learning which request them.

Examinations, offered monthly at Poughkeepsie High School, are given all-day Friday and half-day Saturday. Candidates may apply at the principal's office in their area high school, or at the guidance office at Poughkeepsie High School. Each application must be accompanied by a $4 check or money order, payable to the New York State Department of Education. Testing dates may be arranged for whatever month the applicant desires, once he files application. Dates may also be changed at his request.

Entertainers Face Charges of Neglect

Van Nuys, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP)—Bandleader Pete Daily and his wife, Faye, were at Liberty on bonds of $500 each today after police signed a complaint charging them with neglecting their six children.

Officers said that one of the children, a 13-year-old daughter, was found intoxicated on a bench three blocks from the daily home, and that she said two 'teen age boys had given her some vodka.

Fire, breaking out on a service porch of the daily home, drove the other five children into the street. They range in age from two months to 14 years.

Sgt. Aaron Borden said the Dailys were not at home when the fire started and that neighbors took in the children. He said that they were not home several hours later, but the couple later told officers they were with the children at the neighbor's house.

Germany's Free Schools

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) — The American idea of free schooling for everybody has at least been accepted by every state in the U. S. zone of Germany. American officials have been preaching this idea to the Germans for five years—even since the war. But progress was slow until the last year. Then state after state began to fall in line. Wuerttemberg-Baden was the last to yield. It finally passed the law in August, 1951.

IT'S A FIREBALL ENGINE

Maybe you're missing something BIG

WE know how you feel when a car has given you faithful service. You like it. You're loyal to it. And that's only human.

But just suppose you found out that some other car could make familiar roads seem a lot smoother.

Suppose some other car held the curves in a way you'd never felt before.

Suppose some other car had more thrilling power — steered like a dream—held its course like an airliner on the beam—and let you finish a long day's drive feeling daisy fresh.

Wouldn't you feel you're missing something big unless you tried it out?

There is such a car. Its name is Buick.

It has big soft coil springs on every wheel. It has a Fireball Engine. It has a "front-end geometry" that does miracles with steering. And it has Dynaflow Drive.*

And incidentally, it wears a price tag that makes it a very smart buy compared to anything else you own.

We'd like to have you try this car. You'll never know what you're missing till you do.

How about giving us a call—or coming in to see us real soon?

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE*—saves strain on driver and car
FIREBALL ENGINE—high-compression, valve-in-head—gets more miles from every tank of fuel

TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—seals the chassis, steadies ride, improves driving control
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING—cushions ride, saves servicing costs

Entertainers Face Charges of Neglect

Van Nuys, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP)—Bandleader Pete Daily and his wife, Faye, were at Liberty on bonds of $500 each today after police signed a complaint charging them with neglecting their six children.

Officers said that one of the children, a 13-year-old daughter, was found intoxicated on a bench three blocks from the daily home, and that she said two 'teen age boys had given her some vodka.

Fire, breaking out on a service porch of the daily home, drove the other five children into the street. They range in age from two months to 14 years.

Sgt. Aaron Borden said the Dailys were not at home when the fire started and that neighbors took in the children. He said that they were not home several hours later, but the couple later told officers they were with the children at the neighbor's house.

Germany's Free Schools

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) — The American idea of free schooling for everybody has at last been accepted by every state in the U. S. zone of Germany. American officials have been preaching this idea to the Germans for five years—even since the war. But progress was slow until the last year. Then state after state began to fall in line. Wuerttemberg-Baden was the last to yield. It finally passed the law in August, 1951.

Maybe you're missing something BIG

WE know how you feel when a car has given you faithful service. You like it. You're loyal to it. And that's only human.

But just suppose you found out that some other car could make familiar roads seem a lot smoother.

Suppose some other car held the curves in a way you'd never felt before.

Suppose some other car had more thrilling power—steered like a dream—held its course like an airliner on the beam—and let you finish a long day's drive feeling daisy fresh.

Wouldn't you feel you're missing something big unless you tried it out?

There is such a car. Its name is Buick.

It has big soft coil springs on every wheel. It has a Fireball Engine. It has a "front-end geometry" that does miracles with steering. And it has Dynaflow Drive.*

And incidentally, it wears a price tag that makes it a very smart buy compared to anything else you own.

We'd like to have you try this car. You'll never know what you're missing till you do.

How about giving us a call—or coming in to see us real soon?

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE*—saves strain on driver and car

FIREBALL ENGINE—high-compression, valve-in-head—gets more miles from every tank of fuel

PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT—combines smart style and unsurpassed protection

WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS—greater clarity at night

TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—seals the chassis, steadies ride, improves driving control

SELF-ENERGIZING BRAKES—hydraulic—multiply pedal-pressure five times at brake drum

DREAMLINE STYLING—tapered, car-length fenders, gleaming sweepspears on most models

Plus: Self-locking luggage lid, StepOn parking brake, two-way ignition lock, Safety-Ride rims, HiPoised engine mounting, Body by Fisher

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

Pacific Potentate

Singapore (AP) — Crown Prince Tungi, 280-pound prime minister of the Tonga Islands in the western Pacific, stopped off in Singapore for a three-day visit recently on his way home from the Festival of Britain. Accompanied by his secretary, the 31-year-old Prince visited the University of Malaya and pineapple canneries. Prince Tungi, a six-footer, is the son of Queen Salote of Tonga, aged 51. She tops him by 3 inches and weighs slightly more than 280 pounds. She has ruled over her 47,000 subjects in the Tonga Islands for 33 years.

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP)—More pleasant weather was on tap for most of the country today. It was on the hot side in the far southwest with temperatures yesterday hitting 110 at Yuma, Ariz. They were in the 70's over the eastern half of the nation. Light showers were reported early today in the Central Plains and Central Rockies and there were a few showers in Florida. Tone Might Get Out in Week, if All Goes Well

Hollywood, Sept. 19 (AP)—Franchot Tone may get out of the hospital within a week if there are no complications from the beating he absorbed last Friday.

Tone's doctors have removed some of the bandages from his face, which was pounded into a bloody pulp by actor Tom Neal, his rival for the affections of the indecisive Barbara Payton.

Miss Payton visited Tone again yesterday. Her visits are getting later and later, however, and some Hollywood sources wouldn't be too shocked if suddenly they ceased—for Barbara has been engaged first to Tone, then Neal, then Tone, and so on. She claims this time it's Tone for keeps.

Tone conferred yesterday with insurance agents, presumably over his injuries. He and his lawyers have not decided whether they will file a suit over the beating. Tone has steadfastly refused to talk to reporters and the hospital superintendent says he is "adamant" against having his picture taken until his profile is restored to normal.

Six Are Indicted

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP)—The police chief of suburban Cicero and five other persons were indicted yesterday on charges growing out of the race riots in Cicero last July. The Cook County Grand Jury which returned two indictments charged Police Chief Erwin Konovsky, 46, in one with misconduct in public office. His bond was set at $5,000. The five other persons were named in the second indictment. They were accused of conspiring to injure property, cause financial loss to property owners and to cause riot. The rioting on July 10, 11 and 12 followed attempts of Harvey E. Clark, Jr., a Negro bus driver to move into an apartment building in the all-white suburb.

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 19 (AP)—All 10 persons aboard a Brazilian airliner died in a crash 300 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro Monday night. The plane burned after going down in rough country. The Real Transportes Aereos, owners of the plane, said the six passengers and four crew members were Brazilians.

'Migraine' Is Treated

San Quentin, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP)—San Quentin prison's disciplinary committee has prescribed 29 days in solitary for inmate James Cosinski's migraine headache. "Migraine headache, do not awake," said the sign prison guards found on the 27-year-old inmate's cell door. Disregarding the injunction, they entered and found a dummy in Gosinski's prison cot with a toupe of human hair. Gosinski was discovered, headache-less, in the prison yard, waiting to try an escape.

Wet Weaving

The weaving of Panama hats is not done under water, as is commononly believed, but the fiber and the fingers must be kept moist during the process and, for that reason, the work chiefly is done at night or in the early morning.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS' worth of new telephone equipment, similar to that being installed above, will be part of the 1952 program. It will mean not only service for more telephone users, but more value to all users. Today, users in the average community can reach twice as many phones without toll charges as they could ten years ago.

TELEPHONE COMPANY PLANS $180,000,000 EXPANSION-IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM IN 1952

NEW CABLE is being placed every day to help supply additional telephone service. Today six out of ten people applying for telephone service get it right away. Where shortages have caused a waiting list, telephone people are working as hard as they can to clear up the situation just as soon as possible.

One of the biggest construction programs in New York Telephone Company history has just been announced for next year. It will total $180,000,000. Twenty million dollars larger than the 1951 program, it should provide facilities to add 315,000 more telephones in the state.

It took nearly 40 years after the invention of the telephone to build up this company's total investment to $180,000,000—the amount planned for next year alone!

Next year's program will enable the company to show real progress in bringing service to those now waiting, and in satisfying customers who want individual or two-party lines. Getting the materials for it will be a big problem but—subject to the needs of national defense—the company intends to push ahead as hard and as fast as possible. In the overall, this work will put the telephone system in better shape than ever to serve the expanding needs of the armed forces and vital defense industries.

While some of the money needed to finance this big job will come from sources such as sums earmarked for depreciation, most of it — nearly 100 million dollars—must be obtained in new capital. This money must come from people who have savings to invest. Getting it will hinge upon the company's success in maintaining earnings good enough to make investors want to put their savings in the telephone business rather than in some other enterprise.

Tone Might Get Out in Week, if All Goes Well

Hollywood, Sept. 19 (AP)—Franchot Tone may get out of the hospital within a week if there are no complications from the beating he absorbed last Friday.

Tone's doctors have removed some of the bandages from his face, which was pounded into a bloody pulp by actor Tom Neal, his rival for the affections of the indecisive Barbara Payton.

Miss Payton visited Tone again yesterday. Her visits are getting later and later, however, and some Hollywood sources woldn't be too shocked if suddenly they ceased—for Barbara has been engaged first to Tone, then Neal, then Tone, and so on. She claims this time it's Tone for keeps.

Tone conferred yesterday with insurance agents, presumably over his injuries. He and his lawyers have not decided whether they will file a suit over the beating. Tone has steadfastly refused to talk to reporters and the hospital superintendent says he is "adamant" against having his picture taken until his profile is restored to normal.

Six Are Indicted

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP)—The police chief of suburban Cicero and five other persons were indicted yesterday on charges growing out of the race riots in Cicero last July. The Cook County Grand Jury which returned two indictments charged Police Chief Erwin Konovsky, 46, in one with misconduct in public office. His bond was set at $5,000. The five other persons were named in the second indictment. They were accused of conspiring to injure property, cause financial loss to property owners and to cause riot. The rioting on July 10, 11 and 12 followed attempts of Harvey E. Clark, Jr., a Negro bus driver to move into an apartment building in the all-white suburb.

'Migraine' Is Treated

San Quentin, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP)—San Quentin prison's disciplinary committee has prescribed 29 days in solitary for inmate James Cosinski's migraine headache. "Migraine headache, do not awake," said the sign prison guards found on the 27-year-old inmate's cell door. Disregarding the injunction, they entered and found a dummy in Gosinski's prison cot with a toupe of human hair. Gosinski was discovered, headache-less, in the prison yard, waiting to try an escape.

Vatican City, Sept. 19 (AP)—Pope Pius XII called today upon Catholics to fight against publications which, he said, purporting to be books of sex instruction, "deliberately attempt to corrupt or to shamefully exploit for vile interests the lowest instincts of debased natures." Such publications, he said, "exaggerate out of all proportion the sex element of life" and seek to "make one lose sight of the true and basic reason for marriage, which is procreation and the education of children."

Widow Found Slain

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—A 75-year-old widow was found slain in her Bronx apartment yesterday with her skull fractured and her mouth stuffed with rags. The victim, Mrs. Frieda Seligman, had been dead about 24 hours when a neighbor reported to police that she had not been seen since early Monday. Police who entered through a window found one clue—a man's diamond ring—lying on the floor beside the body. The door was secured from the inside by three locks and a heavy iron bar. Police said Mrs. Seligman was on home relief. Her husband, Kalman, died more than two years ago.

Mail Fight Continues

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—Administration leaders were dubious today of their ability to halt a House drive to lighten proposed increases in mailing rates for newspapers. With the House scheduled to vote by the end of the day on a bill to increase postal rates generally, a stiff fight was brewing over charges for second-class mail. And, there was House sentiment against raising, as the Senate has done, the cost of an ordinary letter to four cents. But no voice was heard in defense of the penny post card. It appeared doomed to become the two-penny card.

Convictions Reported

London, Sept. 19 (AP)—A Warsaw broadcast said today two members of the Jesuit Order, the Rev. Tomasz Rostworowski and the Rev. Stanislaw Nawrocki, have been convicted of espionage and sentenced to 12 years each. Three other defendants also were convicted and sentenced to lower terms. The broadcast said the defendants were accused of engaging in espionage for the "Anglo-American imperialists as well as with contract with underground organizations active in Poland."

Hotel Is Destroyed

Fabyans, N. H., Sept. 19 (AP)—The 240-room White Mountains Hotel, which closed for the season a week ago, burned to the ground early today at a loss unofficial sources said "might surpass half a million dollars." Guilford, Conn., Sept. 19 (AP)—Charles D. Hubbard, 75, artist, writer and teacher, died last night at New Haven Hospital after a lingering illness. Born at Newark, N. J., Hubbard came to Guilford with his family when he was four. He had lived here most of his life. In his writing and painting career of 50 years, he frequently used town backgrounds.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Buying demand returned today to the stock market and sent prices higher after a two-day fall.

The rise carried to between $1 and $2 a share generally among leaders. Losses were usually small, although some went past the dollar mark.

In demand were aircrafts, nonferrous metals, golds, merchandising issues, utilities, and some of the oils and air lines.

Railroads were pretty thoroughly mixed, but a spurt of $5 by Nickel Plate to $215 a share carried the rails as a group to the higher side of the market.

The two-day reaction was only of moderate size after the market reached a 1951 peak as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. It was the best level for the average in 21 years.

Today's advance started rolling ahead at the opening and gained momentum as it went, retracing the larger part of the two-day decline.

Steels, motors, rubbers and radio-television divisions held steady. Freeport Sulphur shot ahead more than $5 and Texas Gulf Sulphur was up around $2 on moderately heavy trading. The National Production Authority estimated a heavy fourth quarter shortage because of mounting defense demands.

Widow Found Slain

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—A 75-year-old widow was found slain in her Bronx apartment yesterday with her skull fractured and her mouth stuffed with rags. The victim, Mrs. Frieda Seligman, had been dead about 24 hours when a neighbor reported to police that she had not been seen since early Monday. Police who entered through a window found one clue—a man's diamond ring—lying on the floor beside the body. The door was secured from the inside by three locks and a heavy iron bar. Police said Mrs. Seligman was on home relief. Her husband, Kalman, died more than two years ago.

Mail Fight Continues

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—Administration leaders were dubious today of their ability to halt a House drive to lighten proposed increases in mailing rates for newspapers. With the House scheduled to vote by the end of the day on a bill to increase postal rates generally, a stiff fight was brewing over charges for second-class mail. And, there was House sentiment against raising, as the Senate has done, the cost of an ordinary letter to four cents. But no voice was heard in defense of the penny post card. It appeared doomed to become the two-penny card.

Convictions Reported

London, Sept. 19 (AP)—A Warsaw broadcast said today two members of the Jesuit Order, the Rev. Tomasz Rostworowski and the Rev. Stanislaw Nawrocki, have been convicted of espionage and sentenced to 12 years each. Three other defendants also were convicted and sentenced to lower terms. The broadcast said the defendants were accused of engaging in espionage for the "Anglo-American imperialists as well as with contract with underground organizations active in Poland."

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Irving Lee Samuels, 27, a Negro, of (480 North avenue) New Rochelle, was found dead yesterday on a stairway landing of a five-foot tenement at 157 West 119th street. Identification was made through papers on the body which was taken to Bellevue Hospital morgue.

He wore a white T-shirt, blue dungarees and a green sweater with orange stripes, and has blonde hair. It was indicated at the home today that he might have gone to Schenectady.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Two masked men, each displaying a gun, forced an elevator operator today to take them to the ninth floor of an office building where they robbed a novelty company of a $4,000 pay roll.

Silver Coat

A new transparent, coating, made of vinylite resins, is now on the market, to prevent tarnishing of silver, brass, copper and other metals. Cakes of salt have been used as money in Abyssinia, Africa, and Tibet, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Only drone bees are allowed to visit neighboring colonies. Queens and workers are not acccepted outside their own colonies.

Hotel Is Destroyed

Fabyans, N. H., Sept. 19 (AP)—The 240-room White Mountains Hotel, which closed for the season a week ago, burned to the ground early today at a loss unofficial sources said "might surpass half a million dollars." No one was in the building at the time. The hotel had been known for several years as the Fabyan House but its name was changed this year to the White Mountains Hotel.

C. D. Hubbard Dies

Guilford, Conn., Sept. 19 (AP)—Charles D. Hubbard, 75, artist, writer and teacher, died last night at New Haven Hospital after a lingering illness. Born at Newark, N. J., Hubbard came to Guilford with his family when he was four. He had lived here most of his life. In his writing and painting career of 50 years, he frequently used town backgrounds.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Buying demand returned today to the stock market and sent prices higher after a two-day fall.

The rise carried to between $1 and $2 a share generally among leaders. Losses were usually small, although some went past the dollar mark.

In demand were aircrafts, nonferrous metals, golds, merchandising issues, utilities, and some of the oils and air lines.

Railroads were pretty thoroughly mixed, but a spurt of $5 by Nickel Plate to $215 a share carried the rails as a group to the higher side of the market.

The two-day reaction was only of moderate size after the market reached a 1951 peak as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. It was the best level for the average in 21 years.

Today's advance started rolling ahead at the opening and gained momentum as it went, retracing the larger part of the two-day decline.

Steels, motors, rubbers and radio-television divisions held steady. Freeport Sulphur shot ahead more than $5 and Texas Gulf Sulphur was up around $2 on moderately heavy trading. The National Production Authority estimated a heavy fourth quarter shortage because of mounting defense demands.

Hits Sex Books

Vatican City, Sept. 19 (AP)—Pope Pius XII called today upon Catholics to fight against publications which, he said, purporting to be books of sex instruction, "deliberately attempt to corrupt or to shamefully exploit for vile interests the lowest instincts of debased natures." Such publications, he said, "exaggerate out of all proportion the sex element of life" and seek to "make one lose sight of the true and basic reason for marriage, which is procreation and the education of children."

Late Bulletin

London, Sept. 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee tonight will call a British general election for Oct. 25, Labor Party sources announced.

Widow Found Slain

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—A 75-year-old widow was found slain in her Bronx apartment yesterday with her skull fractured and her mouth stuffed with rags. The victim, Mrs. Frieda Seligman, had been dead about 24 hours when a neighbor reported to police that she had not been seen since early Monday. Police who entered through a window found one clue—a man's diamond ring—lying on the floor beside the body. The door was secured from the inside by three locks and a heavy iron bar. Police said Mrs. Seligman was on home relief. Her husband, Kalman, died more than two years ago.

Mail Fight Continues

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP)—Administration leaders were dubious today of their ability to halt a House drive to lighten proposed increases in mailing rates for newspapers. With the House scheduled to vote by the end of the day on a bill to increase postal rates generally, a stiff fight was brewing over charges for second-class mail. And, there was House sentiment against raising, as the Senate has done, the cost of an ordinary letter to four cents. But no voice was heard in defense of the penny post card. It appeared doomed to become the two-penny card.

Convictions Reported

London, Sept. 19 (AP)—A Warsaw broadcast said today two members of the Jesuit Order, the Rev. Tomasz Rostworowski and the Rev. Stanislaw Nawrocki, have been convicted of espionage and sentenced to 12 years each. Three other defendants also were convicted and sentenced to lower terms. The broadcast said the defendants were accused of engaging in espionage for the "Anglo-American imperialists as well as with contract with underground organizations active in Poland."

Body Is Found

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Irving Lee Samuels, 27, a Negro, of (480 North avenue) New Rochelle, was found dead yesterday on a stairway landing of a five-foot tenement at 157 West 119th street. Police said a hypodermic needle was found in a pocket of his clothing as well as a small vial of liquid which was believed to be liquid heroin. Identification was made through papers on the body which was taken to Bellevue Hospital morgue.

Pinza Signs For TV

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Ezio Pinza has signed a long-term radio and television contract with the National Broadcasting Company. The operatic basso who starred in "South Pacific" will appear in special television programs and will guest-star in both radio and television, NBC announced. His next TV appearance will be on the "Colgate Comedy Hour" at 7 p. m. (E.S.T.) next Sunday.

Boy Reported Missing

Police were notified at 9:50 p. m, yesterday that Robert Bruce Powell, 13, has been missing from the Children's Home, East Chester street, since 3 p. m. yesterday. He wore a white T-shirt, blue dungarees and a green sweater with orange stripes, and has blonde hair. It was indicated at the home today that he might have gone to Schenectady.

Get $4,000 Pay Roll

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Two masked men, each displaying a gun, forced an elevator operator today to take them to the ninth floor of an office building where they robbed a novelty company of a $4,000 pay roll.

Silver Coat

A new transparent, coating, made of vinylite resins, is now on the market, to prevent tarnishing of silver, brass, copper and other metals. The coating is applied with a brush and may be removed by breaking the film with a fingernail and peeling it off. It is recommened for use on such things as andirons, door knobs, lamps, candlesticks and ornamental metal articles.

Cakes of salt have been used as money in Abyssinia, Africa, and Tibet, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Only drone bees are allowed to visit neighboring colonies. Queens and workers are not acccepted outside their own colonies.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Buying demand returned today to the stock market and sent prices higher after a two-day fall.

The rise carried to between $1 and $2 a share generally among leaders. Losses were usually small, although some went past the dollar mark.

In demand were aircrafts, nonferrous metals, golds, merchandising issues, utilities, and some of the oils and air lines.

Railroads were pretty thoroughly mixed, but a spurt of $5 by Nickel Plate to $215 a share carried the rails as a group to the higher side of the market.

The two-day reaction was only of moderate size after the market reached a 1951 peak as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. It was the best level for the average in 21 years.

Today's advance started rolling ahead at the opening and gained momentum as it went, retracing the larger part of the two-day decline.

Steels, motors, rubbers and radio-television divisions held steady. Freeport Sulphur shot ahead more than $5 and Texas Gulf Sulphur was up around $2 on moderately heavy trading. The National Production Authority estimated a heavy fourth quarter shortage because of mounting defense demands.

WHAT NAME TO USE?

A bride-to-be writes: "My mother was recently married and I doubt that anyone will recognize her new husband's name, if this is used on my wedding announcements. Is there any solution?"

Your mother has to use her present name, but your surname, being now different from hers, is given in full on the invitation so everyone will know who you are:

Mr. and Mrs. John Newname request the honour of your presence
at the marriage of her daughter Mary Ellen Oldname
etc.

Walking up the Aisle

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to a church wedding with my sister-in-law and her husband. She is older by far than I am, so what about the seating of the three of us? When the usher offers her his arm should I follow with her husband or let him follow her and wait at the back for the usher to come back and show me to my place?

Answer: You follow with her husband.

Picture in Paper

Dear Mrs. Post: I feel quite sure that some of the bride's pictures which appear in the paper are not always solicited by the paper. Is it wrong to send a picture of myself on the chance that it will be printed?

Answer: It is an accepted custom followed by almost everyone.

Husband Calls to Make Correction

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband received an invitation to his niece's wedding. I know of no reason why I was omitted and believe it was an oversight on the part of someone helping to address the envelopes. What is to be done in a case of this kind?

Answer: Rather than to go under the circumstances, it might be best for your husband to telephone his niece about the error that was made and she will certainly correct it verbally.

What is the obligation of the godparent to the new baby? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-36, "The New Baby," answers this and other questions on christening. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Onteora Board Is To Join Program Of School Lunches

The Onteora Central Board of Education voted approval at its September meeting to join the national school lunch program. The central district, which now operates 21 schools until completion of the central school building at Boiceville, has been advised by Lawrence H. Gallagher, supervising principal, to participate in the type C lunch this school year: A half pint of pasteurized milk delivered each day to those pupils who wish to purchase it at cost.

War Correspondent Wins Silver Star

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 19 (AP) — The field commander of United Nations forces in Korea today pinned the silver star on AP War Correspondent John Randolph for heroic action. Randolph carried wounded to safety April 23 during a wild, four-hour battle.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet bestowed the award on the 33-year-old newsman in front of 100 correspondents. He told them:

"The press is part of the United Nations army in Korea. We are honored at having you as members of this command. I know that this gallant incident was one of many in which correspondents have distinguished themselves. The list is very long."

has urged use of the atomic bomb in Korea, applauded McMahon's proposal, as did other lawmakers pleased at the prospect of cutting defense costs.

But Chairman Russell (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the military will have to move slowly in supplanting existing forces "until we know a great deal more about these weapons than we do now."

Speaks of 'Specialists'

McMahon spoke of the possibility of more army "specialists equipped to fire an atomic shell wherever the enemy masses his troops," of "nuclear-powered submarines almost unlimited in range; nuclear-powered aircraft carriers capable of launching planes which carry the atomic bomb,  ship-based guided missiles with atomic warheads; atomic mines; and target-seeking torpedoes which deliver atomic explosives."

"An atomic air force, for its part, will seek out and destroy, with atomic weapons, the enemy's industrial sinews of war," he said. "It will fire missiles with atomic payloads. It will deliver the hydrogen bomb when that most terrible of weapons is achieved."

He said an atomic armed force "ought to mean fewer men under arms."

McMahon said that "for every dollar spent upon atomic defense we can save five dollars on conventional defense," holding out hope of saving $30,000,000,000 a year of present military costs.

"I say that the sky is the limit on the number and variety of atomic weapons which the United States can produce—all at a cost, not of tens of billions per year, but a few billions," he said.

McMahon said Russia now has "the capability of attacking 20 or 30 of our cities with atomic bombs."

also lacked a plan the clerk under a new section of the City Home Rule Law was not obliged to accept it.

On April 11, 1951 an amendment to the City Home Rule Law became effective and said: "No such proposed local law requiring the expenditure of money shall be accepted by the city clerk or be adopted or become effective unless there shall be submitted as part of such proposed local law plan to provide moneys and revenue sufficient to meet such proposed expenditures."

Without this amendment, the judge's opinion said, there would be no controversy. The petitioners claim that their placing the responsibility of raising the required money with the Common Council constitutes a plan.

Hamm's Decision

On the petitioners' contention that they are entitled to acceptance of the additional petition Justice Hamm said: The petitioners "contend that in the same manner they derive a benefit because the city clerk 'accepted' the original petition 'and affirmatively acted upon it by sending it to the Common Council'."

The opinion held "It is true that the city clerk acted pursuant to the provisions of Section 16, which requires that 'the city clerk shall examine each such petition so filed with him and shall, not later than 30 days after the date of its filing, transmit to the local legislative body of the city a certificate that he has examined it and has found it complies or does not comply, as the case may be, with all the requirements of law'."

It is true also, the opinion said, "that he should have followed the amendment to Section 19-a, which enjoined him from accepting a petition which failed to contain a plan within the meaning of the amendment. However, his transmitting the petition to the Common Council instead of returning it to the petitioners is entirely immaterial because the Common Council was under no statutory or other duty to act on the petition."

The judge's opinion explained further the "under Section 19-a, the city council shall either (a) enact the proposed local law, (b) prepare it for submission to the voters at the ensuing election, or (c) ignore it.

The part of the opinion dealing with the additional petition said: "The legislature could not have intended that the city clerk and corporation counsel should forward to the board of elections a proposed law which by plain prohibitory fiat could never become effective, nor can it be said that submission to the electorate of a proposition worthless in law is the end to be served by the statute as viewed by the judges . . . . The prayer of the petitioners must be denied."

The petition was filed with the city clerk on last June 30. On July 27 the city clerk forwarded the petition to the Common Council, and on Aug. 20 the council adopted a committee report which recommended that the council refrain from submitting the proposal to the voters. On Aug. 31, the city clerk received the additional petition which was returned on Sept. 5. Martocci's first move "to fight this through the courts" followed a few days later.

Jewelry Is Stolen

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Emerald and diamond jewelry worth $65,000 was stolen from a display case in the crowded lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in mid-afternoon yesterday. Police could find no one who saw the job done. There was no evidence that the case was forced, and detectives believed the thieves used a skeleton key or had fashioned a key to fit the lock.

Russians Explain Dewey, Boosters

Grants Pass, Ore., Sept. 19 (AP) —The Russians have been told that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is a "konwn anti-religious leader" and members of a Grants Pass booster club are peasants.

This report came from a diplomatic courier, Carl L. Gilbert, a former resident of nearby Coquille, Ore., in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce.

He said an enlarged 1948 photograph of club members—dressed as cavemen — greeting Dewey, hangs in a former Leningrad cathedral. It shows the cavemen garbed in animal skins and waving bones. Similar greetings are given to all visiting dignitaries. Dewey was here during his 1948 presidential campaign.

Translation Given

Gilbert said the Russian caption below the picture was translated for him as:

"In the U. S., the power of the church is synonymous with the power of Wall street. The downtrodden masses are forced to sustain the wealthy priests and hierarchy in kingly spendor while they themselves are forced to scrape the garbage pails behind the churches for something to eat. Resentment has been growing in the U. S. towards this religious feudalism. Recently a group of peasants have formed a new organization to return to the old pre-church days. They say that return to the prehistoric era is better than the present conditions, hence the attire worn by these Americans. This is a picture of this organization protesting against the cruel and vicious Wall street backed church. Pictured with them is T. E. Dewey, a known anti-religious leader and once candidate for president of the U. S. He was defeated by the Wall street industrialists.

Honoray Member

"This caveman organization is making him an honorary member of their group. Part of the initiation is performed by drinking blood and eating raw meat. While the group's anti-religious campaign is noteworthy, their appearance can only bear out the savage and barbaric character of the American as a whole."

In New York, James J. Hagerty,, Dewey's secretary, laughed and commented: "The Russians are about as accurate and truthful in this as in all Russian stories."

In issuing its regulation for milk and cream products, OPS said changes in prices to be determined by its local offices will depend entirely on cost changes within each marketing area since the base period.

The adjustments in prices will reflect increases or decreases in costs since the Jan. 1, 1950-June 30, 1950 base period. These costs will include direct labor, containers, cans and cases and the price of raw milk or other agricultural commodities.

The action is nationwide. OPS made clear that the new action does not apply to manufactured milk products or to fluid milk sales in retail stores which will remain under general freeze orders.

ples' business last night. He had a 75-minute session with Prime Minister Clement Attlee in Buckingham Palace. Some believe the talks set the stage for a general election in October or November.

The ruling Labor party holds a six-vote majority in the House of Commons. The election would decide whether the people want the Labor Party to go ahead with its Socialist program or put the Conservatives in power.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said the Princess and Duke still plan to leave Sept. 25 for their visit to Canada and the United States.

The king has not been in the best of health for several years and anxiety increased because he has gone through a series of illnesses in past months.

A bulletin June 1 said the king had influenza. His public engagements were cancelled for a week. His Scotland vacation started the first of August and was expected to last until about Oct. 10.

But two doctors flew to Scotland Sept. 2 to examine the king after his family became worried over his developing a cough and colds.

The doctors asked him to come to London for further examination Sept. 7. The king flew back to Scotland the next day. Then he cut his vacation short on Saturday to return for treatment.

But Chairman Russell (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the military will have to move slowly in supplanting existing forces "until we know a great deal more about these weapons than we do now."

Speaks of 'Specialists'

McMahon spoke of the possibility of more army "specialists equipped to fire an atomic shell wherever the enemy masses his troops," of "nuclear-powered submarines almost unlimited in range; nuclear-powered aircraft carriers capable of launching planes which carry the atomic bomb,  ship-based guided missiles with atomic warheads; atomic mines; and target-seeking torpedoes which deliver atomic explosives."

"An atomic air force, for its part, will seek out and destroy, with atomic weapons, the enemy's industrial sinews of war," he said. "It will fire missiles with atomic payloads. It will deliver the hydrogen bomb when that most terrible of weapons is achieved."

He said an atomic armed force "ought to mean fewer men under arms."

McMahon said that "for every dollar spent upon atomic defense we can save five dollars on conventional defense," holding out hope of saving $30,000,000,000 a year of present military costs.

"I say that the sky is the limit on the number and variety of atomic weapons which the United States can produce—all at a cost, not of tens of billions per year, but a few billions," he said.

McMahon said Russia now has "the capability of attacking 20 or 30 of our cities with atomic bombs."

also lacked a plan the clerk under a new section of the City Home Rule Law was not obliged to accept it.

On April 11, 1951 an amendment to the City Home Rule Law became effective and said: "No such proposed local law requiring the expenditure of money shall be accepted by the city clerk or be adopted or become effective unless there shall be submitted as part of such proposed local law plan to provide moneys and revenue sufficient to meet such proposed expenditures."

Without this amendment, the judge's opinion said, there would be no controversy. The petitioners claim that their placing the responsibility of raising the required money with the Common Council constitutes a plan.

Hamm's Decision

On the petitioners' contention that they are entitled to acceptance of the additional petition Justice Hamm said: The petitioners "contend that in the same manner they derive a benefit because the city clerk 'accepted' the original petition 'and affirmatively acted upon it by sending it to the Common Council'."

The opinion held "It is true that the city clerk acted pursuant to the provisions of Section 16, which requires that 'the city clerk shall examine each such petition so filed with him and shall, not later than 30 days after the date of its filing, transmit to the local legislative body of the city a certificate that he has examined it and has found it complies or does not comply, as the case may be, with all the requirements of law'."

It is true also, the opinion said, "that he should have followed the amendment to Section 19-a, which enjoined him from accepting a petition which failed to contain a plan within the meaning of the amendment. However, his transmitting the petition to the Common Council instead of returning it to the petitioners is entirely immaterial because the Common Council was under no statutory or other duty to act on the petition."

The judge's opinion explained further the "under Section 19-a, the city council shall either (a) enact the proposed local law, (b) prepare it for submission to the voters at the ensuing election, or (c) ignore it.

The part of the opinion dealing with the additional petition said: "The legislature could not have intended that the city clerk and corporation counsel should forward to the board of elections a proposed law which by plain prohibitory fiat could never become effective, nor can it be said that submission to the electorate of a proposition worthless in law is the end to be served by the statute as viewed by the judges . . . . The prayer of the petitioners must be denied."

The petition was filed with the city clerk on last June 30. On July 27 the city clerk forwarded the petition to the Common Council, and on Aug. 20 the council adopted a committee report which recommended that the council refrain from submitting the proposal to the voters. On Aug. 31, the city clerk received the additional petition which was returned on Sept. 5. Martocci's first move "to fight this through the courts" followed a few days later.

Russians Explain Dewey, Boosters

Grants Pass, Ore., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Russians have been told that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is a "konwn anti-religious leader" and members of a Grants Pass booster club are peasants.

This report came from a diplomatic courier, Carl L. Gilbert, a former resident of nearby Coquille, Ore., in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce.

He said an enlarged 1948 photograph of club members—dressed as cavemen — greeting Dewey, hangs in a former Leningrad cathedral. It shows the cavemen garbed in animal skins and waving bones. Similar greetings are given to all visiting dignitaries. Dewey was here during his 1948 presidential campaign.

Gilbert said the Russian caption below the picture was translated for him as:

"In the U. S., the power of the church is synonymous with the power of Wall street. The downtrodden masses are forced to sustain the wealthy priests and hierarchy in kingly spendor while they themselves are forced to scrape the garbage pails behind the churches for something to eat. Resentment has been growing in the U. S. towards this religious feudalism. Recently a group of peasants have formed a new organization to return to the old pre-church days. They say that return to the prehistoric era is better than the present conditions, hence the attire worn by these Americans. This is a picture of this organization protesting against the cruel and vicious Wall street backed church. Pictured with them is T. E. Dewey, a known anti-religious leader and once candidate for president of the U. S. He was defeated by the Wall street industrialists.

"This caveman organization is making him an honorary member of their group. Part of the initiation is performed by drinking blood and eating raw meat. While the group's anti-religious campaign is noteworthy, their appearance can only bear out the savage and barbaric character of the American as a whole."

In New York, James J. Hagerty,, Dewey's secretary, laughed and commented: "The Russians are about as accurate and truthful in this as in all Russian stories."

WarCorrespondent Wins Silver Star

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 19 (AP) — The field commander of United Nations forces in Korea today pinned the silver star on AP War Correspondent John Randolph for heroic action. Randolph carried wounded to safety April 23 during a wild, four-hour battle.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet bestowed the award on the 33-year-old newsman in front of 100 correspondents. He told them:

"The press is part of the United Nations army in Korea. We are honored at having you as members of this command. I know that this gallant incident was one of many in which correspondents have distinguished themselves. The list is very long."

Randolph's action, in disregard of his own safety while with a cut-off American battalion, was first brought to public attention by the battalion commander. Randolph had passed over it lightly in his dispatch.

Jacoby on Canasta

Take Advantage of Discard Pile

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

It seems to me that most Canasta players fail to take full advantage of their position when they win the first big discard pile. In this situation it is often possible to get a stranglehold on the discard pile for the rest of that hand.

Let's take a concrete example. Both sides need 120 points, and you win the first pile. After your meld of Joker-Joker-5-5-5-5, you have eighteen cards left in your hand. Those eighteen cards include two black threes, a few scattered high cards, a pair of deuces, and several low cards (fours, sixes, and sevens).

Don't meld anything else at this stage. You may need all eighteen of your cards. Your object is to let your partner win the next discard pile and then to build up both hands until each of you has about twenty cards. If you can get anywhere close to that goal, your side will have a real stranglehold on the discard pile.

Your first discard should be a black three. If you are quite sure that one of the other cards is safe, you may discard one of the low cards. The black three is better, however, because it will give your partner an absolutely safe discard if he is lucky enough to pick up the next pile.

Your partner must not pick up the pile at his next turn. He will get only two cards in the pile and he will find himself with fewer than eleven cards after he has melded. He is trying to increase (not decrease) the number of cards in his hand. For the same reason he must not meld from his hand. He must stand pat at his next turn.

At your own next turn, the discard pile will contain four cards. Do not pick it up. Discard safely and give your partner the chance to get the pile.

At this second turn, your partner will find six cards in the discard pile. He should pick it up if he can. If he cannot, he must find a safe discard.

At your own second turn, the pile will contain eight cards if your partner has been unable to take it. You must pick it up yourself if you can. There is too much danger, otherwise, of losing it to one of the opponents.

Then you must begin once more the process of passing up one pile in the hope that your partner can take the second pile that comes to him. As soon as he gets one small pile you can breathe more freely, for he will have two or three safe discards and you will then be able to let the pile grow a little bigger each time without fearing that an opponent will get it away from you.

Book Review

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

(The Library is very fortunate in a recent gift from the Mental Health Committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, of two books on the subject of mental health by two experts in that little understood field. These books are addressed to the average you and me, free from technical language which is often so confusing. A review of one of these books follows:)

YOU'RE HUMAN, TOO
by Adele Streseman, M.D.

This is a thoroughly readable book in which the author shows quite clearly that "But for the Grace of God" and a lot of common sense we might all be neurotics with an inescapable urge toward hypocrisy, sex perversion, alcoholism, gambling, suicide-or worse.

From examples of case histories out of her own medical observation, and with an amazing display of kindness and sympathy she shows how an understanding and control of our complex nervous system can help us to overcome our trend toward evil acts and habits and turn instead toward that normal, healthy mental outlook which makes use of all of our latent capabilities.

She explains how psychoanalysis releases neurotic guilt, which is not real, but imagined, caused by various factors, but most often by emotional conflicts. These inner battles usually blow up disastrously unless the steam generated is turned into harmless channels—or better still used to spark some undeveloped talent and perchance produce a literary, musical or financial genius.

In the chapter on Hyprocrisy, Dr. Streseman explains how rare and desirable is its opposite—Emotional Honesty — and how easy it is to suppress that trait and instead, by the wrong training of our children, make little hypocrites of them. In fact the author shows us that once one learns to be completely honest with oneself, he has become a well-balanced person over whom neurotic ills have no power.

The chapters on sex perverts are enlightening. Toward this problem the author is most sympathetic and reasonable. In the chapter on gambling she explains the paradox of the simple childish faith in magic which is at the base of all gambling, and which we all have; and the drastic laws which man makes to curb it. A most interesting light on a universal weakness. In the chapter on Genius the author shows by how little many of us fail to achieve greatness. She shows that the curse of over-suppression in our childhood, coupled with our lack of daring in later life is responsible for so much mediocrity.

The chapter on Alcoholics is the most understanding and hopeful of all. She makes it clear that alcoholism is no more a disgrace than pneumonia. Both are a sickness and both are usually curable. She gives high praise to "Alcoholics Anonymous" and hopes that the time will come when the "Anonymous" will be dropped and we can openly recognize the people who are doing such a splendid job of reclamation for themselves and others. Even better than what they do is their manner of doing it.

Dr. Streseman has a broad conception of what Psychoanalysis can do. Just as the medical profession seeks to do far more than cure a few illnesses, so Dr. Streseman sees psychoanalysis as inspiring us to strengthen our mental fibre as to help cure the sick world around us and so relieve the stresses and strains which weigh us down and thus lead to universal normalcy.

As Pegler Sees It

thing. He has always been mixed up in so-called liberal movements. The league claims not to be a front but they held a special meeting and dropped me because I testified against the Communists."

As to the interview with Morris, Miss Calomiris said:

"Through Young and Rubicam (an advertising agency) I heard there was a chance to get assignments at the L.H.J. I went to see him. He said I had done a great disservice to my country and the Photo League (by testifying against the Communists). He said he had one important requirement, that there should be rapport between him and his photographers and that there could be no rapport between him and me. He said 'I would feel that you were a spy for the FBI, in my office. As far as I am concerned, you are a spy.' The telephone rang and he asked me to step outside while he answered as though I would eavesdrop on his conversation.

"Later, Bruce Gould called me in and said he wanted to apologize for the conduct of one of his workers. He said he grieved that anyone on his staff should conduct himself like that. He said Johnny was a liberal but he had committed many errors."

I phoned Gould's office but he was in Europe.

Lisiecki said that when he and O'Neill went to see Gould, he told them that Morris was a conscientious objector. O'Neill commented that the selective service respected conscientious objectors on religious grounds but not on all other grounds.

Morris told me he registered with his draft board as a conscientious objector in 1940, when the Hitler-Stalin alliance was in force. I asked the grounds for his objections, whether religious or political. After some hesitation, Morris answered "moral." He added, apropos nothing specific, that "the closest anyone has ever come to calling me a Communist appeared in the Legion magazine."

On the importance of Miss Bourke-White to the Photo League, Miss Calomiris said:

"Her weight was tremendous with them. She had a big name. The little technicians wanted to rub elbows with Margaret Bourke-White. The fact of her association with Life was very important. I know because I was executive secretary of the League."

Miss Bourke-White's connection was "association" rather than "activity." In two instances her name was used by the League in the usual manner of Communist fronts and Miss Calomiris says the Communists regarded this as valuable propaganda in their approach to other photographic workers whom they desired to enlist.

Americans Visit Israel

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—A sharp upswing in the volume of American travel to Israel is reported by the American Express office which opened here a year ago. In 1949, there were 22,000 tourists. Last year 33,000 visitors arrived. This year promises to break that record. One of the principal appeals of Israel is the Holy Land. But visitors also have an opportunity to observe here the day-by-day progress being made by the world's newest republic.

Take Advantage of Discard Pile

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

It seems to me that most Canasta players fail to take full advantage of their position when they win the first big discard pile. In this situation it is often possible to get a stranglehold on the discard pile for the rest of that hand.

Let's take a concrete example. Both sides need 120 points, and you win the first pile. After your meld of Joker-Joker-5-5-5-5, you have eighteen cards left in your hand. Those eighteen cards include two black threes, a few scattered high cards, a pair of deuces, and several low cards (fours, sixes, and sevens).

Don't meld anything else at this stage. You may need all eighteen of your cards. Your object is to let your partner win the next discard pile and then to build up both hands until each of you has about twenty cards. If you can get anywhere close to that goal, your side will have a real stranglehold on the discard pile.

Your first discard should be a black three. If you are quite sure that one of the other cards is safe, you may discard one of the low cards. The black three is better, however, because it will give your partner an absolutely safe discard if he is lucky enough to pick up the next pile.

Your partner must not pick up the pile at his next turn. He will get only two cards in the pile and he will find himself with fewer than eleven cards after he has melded. He is trying to increase (not decrease) the number of cards in his hand. For the same reason he must not meld from his hand. He must stand pat at his next turn.

At your own next turn, the discard pile will contain four cards. Do not pick it up. Discard safely and give your partner the chance to get the pile.

At this second turn, your partner will find six cards in the discard pile. He should pick it up if he can. If he cannot, he must find a safe discard.

At your own second turn, the pile will contain eight cards if your partner has been unable to take it. You must pick it up yourself if you can. There is too much danger, otherwise, of losing it to one of the opponents.

Then you must begin once more the process of passing up one pile in the hope that your partner can take the second pile that comes to him. As soon as he gets one small pile you can breathe more freely, for he will have two or three safe discards and you will then be able to let the pile grow a little bigger each time without fearing that an opponent will get it away from you.

Book Review

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

(The Library is very fortunate in a recent gift from the Mental Health Committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, of two books on the subject of mental health by two experts in that little understood field. These books are addressed to the average you and me, free from technical language which is often so confusing. A review of one of these books follows:)

YOU'RE HUMAN, TOO
by Adele Streseman, M.D.

This is a thoroughly readable book in which the author shows quite clearly that "But for the Grace of God" and a lot of common sense we might all be neurotics with an inescapable urge toward hypocrisy, sex perversion, alcoholism, gambling, suicide-or worse.

From examples of case histories out of her own medical observation, and with an amazing display of kindness and sympathy she shows how an understanding and control of our complex nervous system can help us to overcome our trend toward evil acts and habits and turn instead toward that normal, healthy mental outlook which makes use of all of our latent capabilities.

She explains how psychoanalysis releases neurotic guilt, which is not real, but imagined, caused by various factors, but most often by emotional conflicts. These inner battles usually blow up disastrously unless the steam generated is turned into harmless channels—or better still used to spark some undeveloped talent and perchance produce a literary, musical or financial genius.

In the chapter on Hyprocrisy, Dr. Streseman explains how rare and desirable is its opposite—Emotional Honesty — and how easy it is to suppress that trait and instead, by the wrong training of our children, make little hypocrites of them. In fact the author shows us that once one learns to be completely honest with oneself, he has become a well-balanced person over whom neurotic ills have no power.

The chapters on sex perverts are enlightening. Toward this problem the author is most sympathetic and reasonable. In the chapter on gambling she explains the paradox of the simple childish faith in magic which is at the base of all gambling, and which we all have; and the drastic laws which man makes to curb it. A most interesting light on a universal weakness. In the chapter on Genius the author shows by how little many of us fail to achieve greatness. She shows that the curse of over-suppression in our childhood, coupled with our lack of daring in later life is responsible for so much mediocrity.

The chapter on Alcoholics is the most understanding and hopeful of all. She makes it clear that alcoholism is no more a disgrace than pneumonia. Both are a sickness and both are usually curable. She gives high praise to "Alcoholics Anonymous" and hopes that the time will come when the "Anonymous" will be dropped and we can openly recognize the people who are doing such a splendid job of reclamation for themselves and others. Even better than what they do is their manner of doing it.

Dr. Streseman has a broad conception of what Psychoanalysis can do. Just as the medical profession seeks to do far more than cure a few illnesses, so Dr. Streseman sees psychoanalysis as inspiring us to strengthen our mental fibre as to help cure the sick world around us and so relieve the stresses and strains which weigh us down and thus lead to universal normalcy.

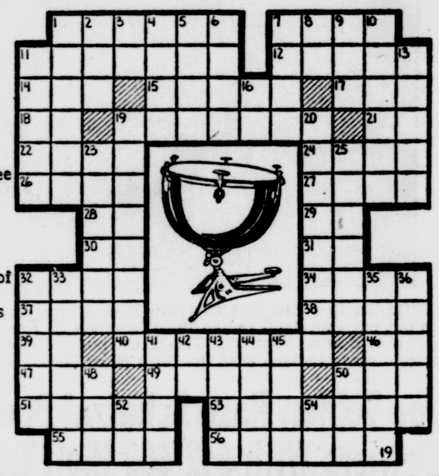
Answer to Previous Puzzle



As Pegler Sees It

thing. He has always been mixed up in so-called liberal movements. The league claims not to be a front but they held a special meeting and dropped me because I testified against the Communists."

As to the interview with Morris, Miss Calomiris said:

"Through Young and Rubicam (an advertising agency) I heard there was a chance to get assignments at the L.H.J. I went to see him. He said I had done a great disservice to my country and the Photo League (by testifying against the Communists). He said he had one important requirement, that there should be rapport between him and his photographers and that there could be no rapport between him and me. He said 'I would feel that you were a spy for the FBI, in my office. As far as I am concerned, you are a spy.' The telephone rang and he asked me to step outside while he answered as though I would eavesdrop on his conversation.

"Later, Bruce Gould called me in and said he wanted to apologize for the conduct of one of his workers. He said he grieved that anyone on his staff should conduct himself like that. He said Johnny was a liberal but he had committed many errors."

I phoned Gould's office but he was in Europe.

Lisiecki said that when he and O'Neill went to see Gould, he told them that Morris was a conscientious objector. O'Neill commented that the selective service respected conscientious objectors on religious grounds but not on all other grounds.

Morris told me he registered with his draft board as a conscientious objector in 1940, when the Hitler-Stalin alliance was in force. I asked the grounds for his objections, whether religious or political. After some hesitation, Morris answered "moral." He added, apropos nothing specific, that "the closest anyone has ever come to calling me a Communist appeared in the Legion magazine."

On the importance of Miss Bourke-White to the Photo League, Miss Calomiris said:

"Her weight was tremendous with them. She had a big name. The little technicians wanted to rub elbows with Margaret Bourke-White. The fact of her association with Life was very important. I know because I was executive secretary of the League."

Miss Bourke-White's connection was "association" rather than "activity." In two instances her name was used by the League in the usual manner of Communist fronts and Miss Calomiris says the Communists regarded this as valuable propaganda in their approach to other photographic workers whom they desired to enlist.

Americans Visit Israel

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—A sharp upswing in the volume of American travel to Israel is reported by the American Express office which opened here a year ago. In 1949, there were 22,000 tourists. Last year 33,000 visitors arrived. This year promises to break that record. One of the principal appeals of Israel is the Holy Land. But visitors also have an opportunity to observe here the day-by-day progress being made by the world's newest republic.

How you May Gain New Strength—Feel Younger

When you are run-down — low-spirited — have sleepless nights — no energy—"nerves"—poor appetite, don't be discouraged! Chances are you are just not getting your full daily requirements of the necessary vitamins and minerals from the food you eat.

What you should do is try FERRIZAN—the new dietary supplement and reconstructive tonic. FERRIZAN not only gives you your full quota of many of the essential vitamins but also supplies the equally important Iron for the blood and Iodine for the ductless glands plus needed Calcium and Phosphorus.

Often in ten days you may feel the difference; your friends notice it. Back comes your appetite—you should actually feel the urge to eat. Nerves can grow steadier; work easier; you may sleep more soundly.

So why delay? Why not decide now to take FERRIZAN for 30 days and see for yourself just how wonderful FERRIZAN can make you feel. Costs you only a few cents a day. Money refunded if not completely satisfied, says United Cut Rate Pharmacy.

Jacoby on Canasta

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

It seems to me that most Canasta players fail to take full advantage of their position when they win the first big discard pile. In this situation it is often possible to get a stranglehold on the discard pile for the rest of that hand.

Let's take a concrete example. Both sides need 120 points, and you win the first pile. After your meld of Joker-Joker-5-5-5-5, you have eighteen cards left in your hand. Those eighteen cards include two black threes, a few scattered high cards, a pair of deuces, and several low cards (fours, sixes, and sevens).

Don't meld anything else at this stage. You may need all eighteen of your cards. Your object is to let your partner win the next discard pile and then to build up both hands until each of you has about twenty cards. If you can get anywhere close to that goal, your side will have a real stranglehold on the discard pile.

Your first discard should be a black three. If you are quite sure that one of the other cards is safe, you may discard one of the low cards. The black three is better, however, because it will give your partner an absolutely safe discard if he is lucky enough to pick up the next pile.

Your partner must not pick up the pile at his next turn. He will get only two cards in the pile and he will find himself with fewer than eleven cards after he has melded. He is trying to increase (not decrease) the number of cards in his hand. For the same reason he must not meld from his hand. He must stand pat at his next turn.

At your own next turn, the discard pile will contain four cards. Do not pick it up. Discard safely and give your partner the chance to get the pile.

At this second turn, your partner will find six cards in the discard pile. He should pick it up if he can. If he cannot, he must find a safe discard.

At your own second turn, the pile will contain eight cards if your partner has been unable to take it. You must pick it up yourself if you can. There is too much danger, otherwise, of losing it to one of the opponents.

Then you must begin once more the process of passing up one pile in the hope that your partner can take the second pile that comes to him. As soon as he gets one small pile you can breathe more freely, for he will have two or three safe discards and you will then be able to let the pile grow a little bigger each time without fearing that an opponent will get it away from you.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Under favorable conditions, an airplane can be seen at 10,000 to 15,000 feet altitude.

Book Review

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

(The Library is very fortunate in a recent gift from the Mental Health Committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, of two books on the subject of mental health by two experts in that little understood field. These books are addressed to the average you and me, free from technical language which is often so confusing. A review of one of these books follows:)

YOU'RE HUMAN, TOO
by Adele Streseman, M.D.

This is a thoroughly readable book in which the author shows quite clearly that "But for the Grace of God" and a lot of common sense we might all be neurotics with an inescapable urge toward hypocrisy, sex perversion, alcoholism, gambling, suicide-or worse.

From examples of case histories out of her own medical observation, and with an amazing display of kindness and sympathy she shows how an understanding and control of our complex nervous system can help us to overcome our trend toward evil acts and habits and turn instead toward that normal, healthy mental outlook which makes use of all of our latent capabilities.

She explains how psychoanalysis releases neurotic guilt, which is not real, but imagined, caused by various factors, but most often by emotional conflicts. These inner battles usually blow up disastrously unless the steam generated is turned into harmless channels—or better still used to spark some undeveloped talent and perchance produce a literary, musical or financial genius.

In the chapter on Hyprocrisy, Dr. Streseman explains how rare and desirable is its opposite—Emotional Honesty — and how easy it is to suppress that trait and instead, by the wrong training of our children, make little hypocrites of them. In fact the author shows us that once one learns to be completely honest with oneself, he has become a well-balanced person over whom neurotic ills have no power.

The chapters on sex perverts are enlightening. Toward this problem the author is most sympathetic and reasonable. In the chapter on gambling she explains the paradox of the simple childish faith in magic which is at the base of all gambling, and which we all have; and the drastic laws which man makes to curb it. A most interesting light on a universal weakness. In the chapter on Genius the author shows by how little many of us fail to achieve greatness. She shows that the curse of over-suppression in our childhood, coupled with our lack of daring in later life is responsible for so much mediocrity.

The chapter on Alcoholics is the most understanding and hopeful of all. She makes it clear that alcoholism is no more a disgrace than pneumonia. Both are a sickness and both are usually curable. She gives high praise to "Alcoholics Anonymous" and hopes that the time will come when the "Anonymous" will be dropped and we can openly recognize the people who are doing such a splendid job of reclamation for themselves and others. Even better than what they do is their manner of doing it.

Dr. Streseman has a broad conception of what Psychoanalysis can do. Just as the medical profession seeks to do far more than cure a few illnesses, so Dr. Streseman sees psychoanalysis as inspiring us to strengthen our mental fibre as to help cure the sick world around us and so relieve the stresses and strains which weigh us down and thus lead to universal normalcy.

Americans Visit Israel

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—A sharp upswing in the volume of American travel to Israel is reported by the American Express office which opened here a year ago. In 1949, there were 22,000 tourists. Last year 33,000 visitors arrived. This year promises to break that record. One of the principal appeals of Israel is the Holy Land. But visitors also have an opportunity to observe here the day-by-day progress being made by the world's newest republic.

The real name of Barnum's partner was James McGuiness instead of Bailey. He changed his name to Bailey when he ran away from home, to escape detection.

thing. He has always been mixed up in so-called liberal movements. The league claims not to be a front but they held a special meeting and dropped me because I testified against the Communists."

As to the interview with Morris, Miss Calomiris said:

"Through Young and Rubicam (an advertising agency) I heard there was a chance to get assignments at the L.H.J. I went to see him. He said I had done a great disservice to my country and the Photo League (by testifying against the Communists). He said he had one important requirement, that there should be rapport between him and his photographers and that there could be no rapport between him and me. He said 'I would feel that you were a spy for the FBI, in my office. As far as I am concerned, you are a spy.' The telephone rang and he asked me to step outside while he answered as though I would eavesdrop on his conversation.

"Later, Bruce Gould called me in and said he wanted to apologize for the conduct of one of his workers. He said he grieved that anyone on his staff should conduct himself like that. He said Johnny was a liberal but he had committed many errors."

I phoned Gould's office but he was in Europe.

Lisiecki said that when he and O'Neill went to see Gould, he told them that Morris was a conscientious objector. O'Neill commented that the selective service respected conscientious objectors on religious grounds but not on all other grounds.

Morris told me he registered with his draft board as a conscientious objector in 1940, when the Hitler-Stalin alliance was in force. I asked the grounds for his objections, whether religious or political. After some hesitation, Morris answered "moral." He added, apropos nothing specific, that "the closest anyone has ever come to calling me a Communist appeared in the Legion magazine."

On the importance of Miss Bourke-White to the Photo League, Miss Calomiris said:

"Her weight was tremendous with them. She had a big name. The little technicians wanted to rub elbows with Margaret Bourke-White. The fact of her association with Life was very important. I know because I was executive secretary of the League."

Miss Bourke-White's connection was "association" rather than "activity." In two instances her name was used by the League in the usual manner of Communist fronts and Miss Calomiris says the Communists regarded this as valuable propaganda in their approach to other photographic workers whom they desired to enlist.

2 Pennants for Asking, Takers Seem to Be Among the Missing

Contenders Pass Up Chance After Chance

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Say, doesn't anybody want to win the pennant?

That seems to be the picture as the top contenders in the American and National Leagues keep passing up chance after chance to take a stranglehold on first place.

The New York Yankees appeared on the way to the America League flag after winning those vital games from Cleveland Sunday and Monday.

So what happened? The Yankees blew a 7-1 decision to the fourth place Chicago White Sox last night. That cut their lead over the Indians from a full game to a microscopic three percentage points.

Now take Boston's third place Red Sox. Winner of six of their last seven starts, the Red Sox seemed ready to deliver the knockout punch to the groggy Indians. Instead, the Tribe sharpened their tomahawks and scalped the Bostonians, 6-4. The defeat left the Red Sox still two and a half games off the pace.

Even Brooklyn joined the act. Generally regarded as sure-fire World Series participants, the Dodgers now find themselves hard put to keep the persistent New York Giants off their necks.

The Dodgers saw their once 13½ game margin shrink to three yesterday when they bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-1, as the Giants took a 6-5 squeaker from Cincinnati.

While there is some reason for Dodger alarm, it would still take a minor miracle for the Giants to overhaul them. Brooklyn owns a commanding five-game bulge in the important losing side. The Giants have only eight games left to play against the Dodgers' 12.

Bulge on Losing Side

That's where the Yankees have their edge, too—in the losing side. Cleveland has won two more than New York but the Indians also have lost two more. They have only seven games left to 11 for New York and 12 for Boston. However, New York and Boston clash eight more times.

Pitcher Billy Pierce and outfielder Eddie Stewart collaborated to beat the Yankees. The little lefthander throttled the Yankees with eight hits for his 14th triumph. Stewart, an ex-Yankee, hit a home run to tie the score at 1-1, then shattered the deadlock with a bases-loaded single in the eigth which put the Sox in front, 3-1. Chicago added four more runs and routed Vic Raschi before the inning ended. The Yankee righthander, who was gunning for his 20th victory, went down to his 10th defeat instead.

Mike Garcia, the strong-armed Cleveland righthander, was successful in his attempt for his 20th triumph. The Mexican hurler held the Red Sox to nine hits and helped himself to a mighty double in the Indians four-run sixth inning that sent Bill Wight down to his sixth defeat.

Young Tom Poholsky limited the Dodgers to eight hits in posting his sixth win for the Cards. A five-run fifth, ignited by rookie Vern Benson's home run off loser Ralph Branca, clinched the victory.

George Spencer helped Dave Koslo post his ninth New York victory with a sterling ninth inning relief job. The young righthander retired pinch hitter Hank Edwards for the final out after the Reds had scored three times and had the tying and winning runs on base. Monte Irvin's 22nd homer in the fourth with one on proved to be the winning blow.

Byrne Hits Grand Slam

Elsewhere, the St. Louis Browns swept a tri-night doubleheader from Washington, 8-0 and 3-2; Detroit topped the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-6; Pittsburgh nipped Boston's Braves, 6-5 and Chicago's Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phils, 7-4.

Tommy Byrne was the whole show for the Browns. He blanked the Senators with three hits and helped his cause with a grand slam homer in the opener. His pinch hit single drove in the winning run in the 10th inning of the nightcap.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Eddie Stewart, White Sox—Homered and later singled with the bases loaded to highlight six-run attack in eighth inning as Chicago whipped the New York Yankees, 7-1.

Pitching—Tom Poholsky, Cardinals—Scattered eight hits as St. Louis upset the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-1, to cut the Brooks' first place lead over the Giants to three games.

KAA Will Elect Officers Tonight

Bob Umpleby, president, has requested a full attendance of members.

Odds Favor Rocky For Janiro Bout

Detroit, Sept. 19 (AP)—Rocky Graziano's superior punching power makes him an 8-to-5 favorite in his scheduled 10-round middleweight bout with Tony Janiro here tonight.

The granite-chinned gladiator from the Bronx was a heavier favorite—12 to 5—in two previous bouts with the baby-faced scrapper from Youngstown, O.

Both fighters will be bidding for one of boxing's best "money shots"—a crack at Sugar Ray Robinson's 160-pound crown. The winner stands a good chance of gaining an engagement in February with Sugar Ray, the ring's hottest box office attraction at the moment.

The fight will be broadcast and televised over national networks at 9 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Stymie Eliminated

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 19 (AP)—The stymie is dead in match play golf, effective Jan. 1, 1952. Elimination of the stymie is the most significant of a new international code of the game which has now been adopted by the United States and Great Britain, the two big golf-playing nations. The Royal and Ancient Golf Club yesterday approved the uniform rules, previously accepted by the United States Golf Association.

Shokan Forfeits Lanesville Game

The Lanesville AC was awarded a forfeit victory over the Shokan Indians Sunday when the latter club refused to continue play in the bottom half of the 10th inning of a 5-5 game.

Shokan complained of several players having to return to college and due to the extra inning affair, they were already late.

Shokan, scoring single runs in the third, fourth and seventh and two in the sixth, held a commanding 5-0 bulge over Lanesville going into the last half of the ninth. Then the storm broke loose and Lanesville pushed over five big runs to knot the score.

After the Indians were retired in the top of the 10th, they refused to take the field and Umpire-in-Chief Gardiner declared the game forfeited to the Lanesville nine.

Personous went all the way for Shokan and was touched for 10 blows. Bill Clancy, a converted infielder, worked for Lanesville and permitted eight hits, including two triples by Fleming, the Shokan catcher.

Eleven errors aided in both team's scoring, Shokan coming up with six while Lanesville committed five.

The Lanesville AC will meet Joe Benjamin's "Whiz Kids" from Saugerties next week.

Stockton, Calif.—Chu Chu Jimenez, 138¾, Los Angeles, outpointed Jesse Flores, 138¾, San Francisco, (10).

2 Pennants for Asking, Takers Seem to Be Among the Missing

Contenders Pass Up Chance After Chance

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Say, doesn't anybody want to win the pennant?

That seems to be the picture as the top contenders in the American and National Leagues keep passing up chance after chance to take a stranglehold on first place.

The New York Yankees appeared on the way to the America League flag after winning those vital games from Cleveland Sunday and Monday.

So what happened? The Yankees blew a 7-1 decision to the fourth place Chicago White Sox last night. That cut their lead over the Indians from a full game to a microscopic three percentage points.

Now take Boston's third place Red Sox. Winner of six of their last seven starts, the Red Sox seemed ready to deliver the knockout punch to the groggy Indians. Instead, the Tribe sharpened their tomahawks and scalped the Bostonians, 6-4. The defeat left the Red Sox still two and a half games off the pace.

Even Brooklyn joined the act. Generally regarded as sure-fire World Series participants, the Dodgers now find themselves hard put to keep the persistent New York Giants off their necks.

The Dodgers saw their once 13½ game margin shrink to three yesterday when they bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-1, as the Giants took a 6-5 squeaker from Cincinnati.

While there is some reason for Dodger alarm, it would still take a minor miracle for the Giants to overhaul them. Brooklyn owns a commanding five-game bulge in the important losing side. The Giants have only eight games left to play against the Dodgers' 12.

Bulge on Losing Side

That's where the Yankees have their edge, too—in the losing side. Cleveland has won two more than New York but the Indians also have lost two more. They have only seven games left to 11 for New York and 12 for Boston. However, New York and Boston clash eight more times.

Pitcher Billy Pierce and outfielder Eddie Stewart collaborated to beat the Yankees. The little lefthander throttled the Yankees with eight hits for his 14th triumph. Stewart, an ex-Yankee, hit a home run to tie the score at 1-1, then shattered the deadlock with a bases-loaded single in the eigth which put the Sox in front, 3-1. Chicago added four more runs and routed Vic Raschi before the inning ended. The Yankee righthander, who was gunning for his 20th victory, went down to his 10th defeat instead.

Mike Garcia, the strong-armed Cleveland righthander, was successful in his attempt for his 20th triumph. The Mexican hurler held the Red Sox to nine hits and helped himself to a mighty double in the Indians four-run sixth inning that sent Bill Wight down to his sixth defeat.

Young Tom Poholsky limited the Dodgers to eight hits in posting his sixth win for the Cards. A five-run fifth, ignited by rookie Vern Benson's home run off loser Ralph Branca, clinched the victory.

George Spencer helped Dave Koslo post his ninth New York victory with a sterling ninth inning relief job. The young righthander retired pinch hitter Hank Edwards for the final out after the Reds had scored three times and had the tying and winning runs on base. Monte Irvin's 22nd homer in the fourth with one on proved to be the winning blow.

Byrne Hits Grand Slam

Elsewhere, the St. Louis Browns swept a tri-night doubleheader from Washington, 8-0 and 3-2; Detroit topped the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-6; Pittsburgh nipped Boston's Braves, 6-5 and Chicago's Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phils, 7-4.

Tommy Byrne was the whole show for the Browns. He blanked the Senators with three hits and helped his cause with a grand slam homer in the opener. His pinch hit single drove in the winning run in the 10th inning of the nightcap.

Odds Favor Rocky For Janiro Bout

Detroit, Sept. 19 (AP)—Rocky Graziano's superior punching power makes him an 8-to-5 favorite in his scheduled 10-round middleweight bout with Tony Janiro here tonight.

The granite-chinned gladiator from the Bronx was a heavier favorite—12 to 5—in two previous bouts with the baby-faced scrapper from Youngstown, O.

The closeness of those fights, however, has cut the wagering margin.

Both fighters will be bidding for one of boxing's best "money shots"—a crack at Sugar Ray Robinson's 160-pound crown. The winner stands a good chance of gaining an engagement in February with Sugar Ray, the ring's hottest box office attraction at the moment.

The fight will be broadcast and televised over national networks at 9 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

The battle at Olympia is expected to attract Detroit's largest crowd since the Ezzard Charles — Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight bout which drew 13,852 fans last March.

Baybrook, winner of four races in the west, has top weight of 122 pounds. The son of Brookfield ran second last week to Indian Land in the Babylon Handicap here, but the Cowdin is listed as a wide open affair.

To Discuss Fight Plans

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP)—Conferences pointing toward a possible lightweight title fight between Jimmy Carter of New York and Art Aragon of Los Angeles are due to begin shortly in New York. Aragon and his manager, Jimmy Roche, flew east to meet Los Angeles Matchmaker Babe McCoy, who has been dickering with Carter and his pilot, Willie Ketchum, for a title fight in October or early November. Aragon won a split decision over Carter here last month.

Stymie Eliminated

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 19 (AP)—The stymie is dead in match play golf, effective Jan. 1, 1952. Elimination of the stymie is the most significant of a new international code of the game which has now been adopted by the United States and Great Britain, the two big golf-playing nations. The Royal and Ancient Golf Club yesterday approved the uniform rules, previously accepted by the United States Golf Association.

Shokan Forfeits Lanesville Game

The Lanesville AC was awarded a forfeit victory over the Shokan Indians Sunday when the latter club refused to continue play in the bottom half of the 10th inning of a 5-5 game.

Shokan complained of several players having to return to college and due to the extra inning affair, they were already late.

Shokan, scoring single runs in the third, fourth and seventh and two in the sixth, held a commanding 5-0 bulge over Lanesville going into the last half of the ninth. Then the storm broke loose and Lanesville pushed over five big runs to knot the score.

After the Indians were retired in the top of the 10th, they refused to take the field and Umpire-in-Chief Gardiner declared the game forfeited to the Lanesville nine.

Personous went all the way for Shokan and was touched for 10 blows. Bill Clancy, a converted infielder, worked for Lanesville and permitted eight hits, including two triples by Fleming, the Shokan catcher.

Eleven errors aided in both team's scoring, Shokan coming up with six while Lanesville committed five.

The Lanesville AC will meet Joe Benjamin's "Whiz Kids" from Saugerties next week.

2 Pennants for Asking, Takers Seem to Be Among the Missing

Contenders Pass Up Chance After Chance

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Say, doesn't anybody want to win the pennant?

That seems to be the picture as the top contenders in the American and National Leagues keep passing up chance after chance to take a stranglehold on first place.

The New York Yankees appeared on the way to the America League flag after winning those vital games from Cleveland Sunday and Monday.

So what happened? The Yankees blew a 7-1 decision to the fourth place Chicago White Sox last night. That cut their lead over the Indians from a full game to a microscopic three percentage points.

Now take Boston's third place Red Sox. Winner of six of their last seven starts, the Red Sox seemed ready to deliver the knockout punch to the groggy Indians. Instead, the Tribe sharpened their tomahawks and scalped the Bostonians, 6-4. The defeat left the Red Sox still two and a half games off the pace.

Even Brooklyn joined the act. Generally regarded as sure-fire World Series participants, the Dodgers now find themselves hard put to keep the persistent New York Giants off their necks.

The Dodgers saw their once 13½ game margin shrink to three yesterday when they bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-1, as the Giants took a 6-5 squeaker from Cincinnati.

While there is some reason for Dodger alarm, it would still take a minor miracle for the Giants to overhaul them. Brooklyn owns a commanding five-game bulge in the important losing side. The Giants have only eight games left to play against the Dodgers' 12.

Bulge on Losing Side

That's where the Yankees have their edge, too—in the losing side. Cleveland has won two more than New York but the Indians also have lost two more. They have only seven games left to 11 for New York and 12 for Boston. However, New York and Boston clash eight more times.

Pitcher Billy Pierce and outfielder Eddie Stewart collaborated to beat the Yankees. The little lefthander throttled the Yankees with eight hits for his 14th triumph. Stewart, an ex-Yankee, hit a home run to tie the score at 1-1, then shattered the deadlock with a bases-loaded single in the eigth which put the Sox in front, 3-1. Chicago added four more runs and routed Vic Raschi before the inning ended. The Yankee righthander, who was gunning for his 10th victory, went down to his 10th defeat instead.

Mike Garcia, the strong-armed Cleveland righthander, was successful in his attempt for his 20th triumph. The Mexican hurler held the Red Sox to nine hits and helped himself to a mighty double in the Indians four-run sixth inning that sent Bill Wight down to his sixth defeat.

Young Tom Poholsky limited the Dodgers to eight hits in posting his sixth win for the Cards. A five-run fifth, ignited by rookie Vern Benson's home run off loser Ralph Branca, clinched the victory.

George Spencer helped Dave Koslo post his ninth New York victory with a sterling ninth inning relief job. The young righthander retired pinch hitter Hank Edwards for the final out after the Reds had scored three times and had the tying and winning runs on base. Monte Irvin's 22nd homer in the fourth with one on proved to be the winning blow.

Byrne Hits Grand Slam

Elsewhere, the St. Louis Browns swept a tri-night doubleheader from Washington, 8-0 and 3-2; Detroit topped the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-6; Pittsburgh nipped Boston's Braves, 6-5 and Chicago's Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phils, 7-4.

Tommy Byrne was the whole show for the Browns. He blanked the Senators with three hits and helped his cause with a grand slam homer in the opener. His pinch hit single drove in the winning run in the 10th inning of the nightcap.

Ralph Kiner blasted his 41st homer to give Pittsburgh its winning margin.

Yesterday's Stars
(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Eddie Stewart, White Sox—Homered and later singled with the bases loaded to highlight six-run attack in eighth inning as Chicago whipped the New York Yankees, 7-1.

Pitching—Tom Poholsky, Cardinals—Scattered eight hits as St. Louis upset the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-1, to cut the Brooks' first place lead over the Giants to three games.

KAA Will Elect Officers Tonight

Election of new officers will take place tonight during the regular meeting of the Kingston Athletic Association at the Hotel Stuyvesant at 8 o'clock.

Bob Umpleby, president, has requested a full attendance of members.

Odds Favor Rocky For Janiro Bout

Detroit, Sept. 19 (AP)—Rocky Graziano's superior punching power makes him an 8-to-5 favorite in his scheduled 10-round middleweight bout with Tony Janiro here tonight.

The granite-chinned gladiator from the Bronx was a heavier favorite—12 to 5—in two previous bouts with the baby-faced scrapper from Youngstown, O.

The closeness of those fights, however, has cut the wagering margin.

Both fighters will be bidding for one of boxing's best "money shots"—a crack at Sugar Ray Robinson's 160-pound crown. The winner stands a good chance of gaining an engagement in February with Sugar Ray, the ring's hottest box office attraction at the moment.

The fight will be broadcast and televised over national networks at 9 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

The battle at Olympia is expected to attract Detroit's largest crowd since the Ezzard Charles — Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight bout which drew 13,852 fans last March.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—Seventeen two-year-olds are entered for the $20,000-added Cowdin Stakes today at Aqueduct, with Mrs. J. L. Knight's Baybrook, an invader from Chicago, probable favorite. Missing from the six and one-half furlong event are the three leading juvenile colts in the east—Cousin, Tom Fool and Jet Master. Baybrook, winner of four races in the west, has top weight of 122 pounds. The son of Brookfield ran second last week to Indian Land in the Babylon Handicap here, but the Cowdin is listed as a wide open affair.

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP)—Conferences pointing toward a possible lightweight title fight between Jimmy Carter of New York and Art Aragon of Los Angeles are due to begin shortly in New York. Aragon and his manager, Jimmy Roche, flew east to meet Los Angeles Matchmaker Babe McCoy, who has been dickering with Carter and his pilot, Willie Ketchum, for a title fight in October or early November. Aragon won a split decision over Carter here last month.

Shokan Forfeits Lanesville Game

The Lanesville AC was awarded a forfeit victory over the Shokan Indians Sunday when the latter club refused to continue play in the bottom half of the 10th inning of a 5-5 game.

Shokan complained of several players having to return to college and due to the extra inning affair, they were already late.

Shokan, scoring single runs in the third, fourth and seventh and two in the sixth, held a commanding 5-0 bulge over Lanesville going into the last half of the ninth. Then the storm broke loose and Lanesville pushed over five big runs to knot the score.

After the Indians were retired in the top of the 10th, they refused to take the field and Umpire-in-Chief Gardiner declared the game forfeited to the Lanesville nine.

Personous went all the way for Shokan and was touched for 10 blows. Bill Clancy, a converted infielder, worked for Lanesville and permitted eight hits, including two triples by Fleming, the Shokan catcher.

Eleven errors aided in both team's scoring, Shokan coming up with six while Lanesville committed five.

The Lanesville AC will meet Joe Benjamin's "Whiz Kids" from Saugerties next week.

Stockton, Calif.—Chu Chu Jiminez, 138¾, Los Angeles, outpointed Jesse Flores, 138¾, San Francisco, (10).

Stymie Eliminated

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 19 (AP)—The stymie is dead in match play golf, effective Jan. 1, 1952. Elimination of the stymie is the most significant of a new international code of the game which has now been adopted by the United States and Great Britain, the two big golf-playing nations. The Royal and Ancient Golf Club yesterday approved the uniform rules, previously accepted by the United States Golf Association.

• Bowling Roundup:

How can you account for such a lack of interest among our women hotshots toward a major league? Seldom has a season started with so much commotion and pressure with respect to reorganization of leagues. This seems strange in the light of future developments, notably the New York state championships here next spring.

Speaking as an outsider, it seems to this observer that the upper crust of Kingston bowling is showing an alarming deterioration. Many leagues are discovering the painful truth that an organization—even a bowling league—is no stronger than the men who run it.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Another Joe Falcaro story:

Chesty Joe used to wear a trick topcoat, with a specially tailored right sleeve, and it brought him many amusing moments. Like the night he barged into the Central Recreation about 1 a. m. and promply engaged in a friendly verbal tiff with Johnny Ferraro. The two argued long and loud on the relative merits of their bowling ability when Falcaro brought the discussion to a quick halt.

"Why, you farmer," he addressed Ferraro, "I'll bowl you with my topcoat on!"

Such an incredible boast was too much for Ferraro who quickly reached into his well-grooved pocket and came up with a handful of bills.

"Just for fun," quipped Falcaro, "I don't want to take your dough that easy."

Well sir, the two gentlemen squared off on those famous sewers—alleys 7 and 8—and Mr. Falcaro, "the greatest bowler I ever saw"—bopped a 245. Mr. Ferraro's total fell considerably short of that.

New secretaries in the limelight—Irwin J. Thomas, who inherits a big job with the Kingston Bowling Association in this state tournament year. Bert Rhea, veteran Poughkeepsie executive and promoter, has succeeded Eddie Gordon of Newburgh as Hudson Valley League secretary. Newburgh's Cy Diners made their debut in the Metropolitan Major League with a clean sweep last Wednesday at the Bowlmor in New York. John Bailey, a top rookie in the pre-war years, now associated with Bob Umpleby, is back on the local bowling scene. One of the most ironical twists in the present state tournament setup is the absence of Pete Keresman from the official committee. A few of the wheels didn't sympathize with Pete's long-range, strictly big-league plans but today they are doing exactly the thing he advocated.

• National Notes on Bowling:

Two of the new services voted by the American Bowling Congress convention at St. Paul were: 1. Free league standing sheets; 2. Free team, individual average cards. Distribution of many of the other new services in the ABC expanded program will occur later in the season as many of the new services are in the nature of awards such as: League championship chevrons and the average improvement awards. John J. Canelli, American Bowling Congress president, was elected chief executive of the National Bowling Council on July 10. The sanctioning of individual and two-man sweepers, possible after August 1, as the result of amendments to the American Bowling Congress constitution May 11, will greatly enhance interest in these affairs and furnish protection for the bowler. The ABC has never extended sanctioning protection to any event below the three-man team level.

• Know Your Rules:

Under the new membership rules of the ABC, male members of mixed leagues must secure a league sanction regardless of the number of men per team. In mixed leagues of men and women, either the president or the treasurer must be a male. . . . Any league which was sanctioned during the 1950-51 season is temporarily sanctioned for a period of six weeks after the start of its current schedule, according to a new ABC rule. Of course, the alleys on which its games are bowled must be certified and the league sanction application, membership dues and related reports submitted on or before the expiration of the six-weeks grace period.

Co-operate with your league secretary. Don't make him a suckertary.

To Honor Ouimet

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 19 (AP)—A cannon booms today and Francis Ouimet of Boston drives himself into the role of captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews. It's the first time the honor has ever been bestowed on an American, the title in the past has been restricted largely to royalty. Bobby Jones, although beloved by the British, never made it. Ouimet is honored for his 1913 victory over two famous British stars—Harry Vardon and Ted Ray—In the U. S. Open championship at Brookline, Mass., and for his years of service as captain of the U. S. Walker Cup team.

Cooper Holds Edge In Metro Tourney

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 19 (AP)—Pro Pete Cooper of the Century Country Club, White Plains, N. Y., leads the field going into the second round today of the Metropolitan Open Golf Championship.

But he's got plenty of fast competition and will have to do some classy swinging to keep on top in the tourney over the Forest Hill field club course.

Cooper fired a course record-breaking seven-under-par 63 in yesterday's first round after sinking a downhill eight-foot putt for a two on the 204-yard 18th hole. Previous record on the 6,516-yard course was set by Craig Wood, 11 years ago in the same tourney when he scored a 64.

Close on Cooper's heels was Joe Vileno of Demarest, N. J., who carded a scorching 66.

Defending champion George Stuhler of Rye, N. Y., came up with a 70, as did top amateur Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N. Y.

Some 160 professional and amateur contestants are competing for the $5,000 prize in the championship which was played here last in 1940.

SPORTS

• Bowling Roundup:

How can you account for such a lack of interest among our women hotshots toward a major league? Seldom has a season started with so much commotion and pressure with respect to reorganization of leagues. This seems strange in the light of future developments, notably the New York state championships here next spring.

Speaking as an outsider, it seems to this observer that the upper crust of Kingston bowling is showing an alarming deterioration. Many leagues are discovering the painful truth that an organization—even a bowling league—is no stronger than the men who run it.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Another Joe Falcaro story:

Chesty Joe used to wear a trick topcoat, with a specially tailored right sleeve, and it brought him many amusing moments. Like the night he barged into the Central Recreation about 1 a. m. and promply engaged in a friendly verbal tiff with Johnny Ferraro. The two argued long and loud on the relative merits of their bowling ability when Falcaro brought the discussion to a quick halt.

"Why, you farmer," he addressed Ferraro, "I'll bowl you with my topcoat on!"

Such an incredible boast was too much for Ferraro who quickly reached into his well-grooved pocket and came up with a handful of bills.

"Just for fun," quipped Falcaro, "I don't want to take your dough that easy."

Well sir, the two gentlemen squared off on those famous sewers—alleys 7 and 8—and Mr. Falcaro, "the greatest bowler I ever saw"—bopped a 245. Mr. Ferraro's total fell considerably short of that.

New secretaries in the limelight—Irwin J. Thomas, who inherits a big job with the Kingston Bowling Association in this state tournament year. Bert Rhea, veteran Poughkeepsie executive and promoter, has succeeded Eddie Gordon of Newburgh as Hudson Valley League secretary. Newburgh's Cy Diners made their debut in the Metropolitan Major League with a clean sweep last Wednesday at the Bowlmor in New York. John Bailey, a top rookie in the pre-war years, now associated with Bob Umpleby, is back on the local bowling scene. One of the most ironical twists in the present state tournament setup is the absence of Pete Keresman from the official committee. A few of the wheels didn't sympathize with Pete's long-range, strictly big-league plans but today they are doing exactly the thing he advocated.

• National Notes on Bowling:

Two of the new services voted by the American Bowling Congress convention at St. Paul were: 1. Free league standing sheets; 2. Free team, individual average cards. Distribution of many of the other new services in the ABC expanded program will occur later in the season as many of the new services are in the nature of awards such as: League championship chevrons and the average improvement awards. John J. Canelli, American Bowling Congress president, was elected chief executive of the National Bowling Council on July 10. The sanctioning of individual and two-man sweepers, possible after August 1, as the result of amendments to the American Bowling Congress constitution May 11, will greatly enhance interest in these affairs and furnish protection for the bowler. The ABC has never extended sanctioning protection to any event below the three-man team level.

• Know Your Rules:

Under the new membership rules of the ABC, male members of mixed leagues must secure a league sanction regardless of the number of men per team. In mixed leagues of men and women, either the president or the treasurer must be a male. . . . Any league which was sanctioned during the 1950-51 season is temporarily sanctioned for a period of six weeks after the start of its current schedule, according to a new ABC rule. Of course, the alleys on which its games are bowled must be certified and the league sanction application, membership dues and related reports submitted on or before the expiration of the six-weeks grace period.

Co-operate with your league secretary. Don't make him a suckertary.

To Honor Ouimet

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 19 (AP)—A cannon booms today and Francis Ouimet of Boston drives himself into the role of captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews. It's the first time the honor has ever been bestowed on an American, the title in the past has been restricted largely to royalty. Bobby Jones, although beloved by the British, never made it. Ouimet is honored for his 1913 victory over two famous British stars—Harry Vardon and Ted Ray—In the U. S. Open championship at Brookline, Mass., and for his years of service as captain of the U. S. Walker Cup team.

Cooper Holds Edge In Metro Tourney

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 19 (AP)—Pro Pete Cooper of the Century Country Club, White Plains, N. Y., leads the field going into the second round today of the Metropolitan Open Golf Championship.

But he's got plenty of fast competition and will have to do some classy swinging to keep on top in the tourney over the Forest Hill field club course.

Cooper fired a course record-breaking seven-under-par 63 in yesterday's first round after sinking a downhill eight-foot putt for a two on the 204-yard 18th hole. Previous record on the 6,516-yard course was set by Craig Wood, 11 years ago in the same tourney when he scored a 64.

Close on Cooper's heels was Joe Vileno of Demarest, N. J., who carded a scorching 66.

Fourteen players in all toured the course with under-par scores.

Some 160 professional and amateur contestants are competing for the $5,000 prize in the championship which was played here last in 1940.

• Bowling Roundup:

How can you account for such a lack of interest among our women hotshots toward a major league? Seldom has a season started with so much commotion and pressure with respect to reorganization of leagues. This seems strange in the light of future developments, notably the New York state championships here next spring.

Speaking as an outsider, it seems to this observer that the upper crust of Kingston bowling is showing an alarming deterioration. Many leagues are discovering the painful truth that an organization—even a bowling league—is no stronger than the men who run it.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Another Joe Falcaro story:

Chesty Joe used to wear a trick topcoat, with a specially tailored right sleeve, and it brought him many amusing moments. Like the night he barged into the Central Recreation about 1 a. m. and promply engaged in a friendly verbal tiff with Johnny Ferraro. The two argued long and loud on the relative merits of their bowling ability when Falcaro brought the discussion to a quick halt.

"Why, you farmer," he addressed Ferraro, "I'll bowl you with my topcoat on!"

Such an incredible boast was too much for Ferraro who quickly reached into his well-grooved pocket and came up with a handful of bills.

"Just for fun," quipped Falcaro, "I don't want to take your dough that easy."

Well sir, the two gentlemen squared off on those famous sewers—alleys 7 and 8—and Mr. Falcaro, "the greatest bowler I ever saw"—bopped a 245. Mr. Ferraro's total fell considerably short of that.

New secretaries in the limelight—Irwin J. Thomas, who inherits a big job with the Kingston Bowling Association in this state tournament year. Bert Rhea, veteran Poughkeepsie executive and promoter, has succeeded Eddie Gordon of Newburgh as Hudson Valley League secretary. Newburgh's Cy Diners made their debut in the Metropolitan Major League with a clean sweep last Wednesday at the Bowlmor in New York. John Bailey, a top rookie in the pre-war years, now associated with Bob Umpleby, is back on the local bowling scene. One of the most ironical twists in the present state tournament setup is the absence of Pete Keresman from the official committee. A few of the wheels didn't sympathize with Pete's long-range, strictly big-league plans but today they are doing exactly the thing he advocated.

• National Notes on Bowling:

Two of the new services voted by the American Bowling Congress convention at St. Paul were: 1. Free league standing sheets; 2. Free team, individual average cards. Distribution of many of the other new services in the ABC expanded program will occur later in the season as many of the new services are in the nature of awards such as: League championship chevrons and the average improvement awards. John J. Canelli, American Bowling Congress president, was elected chief executive of the National Bowling Council on July 10. The sanctioning of individual and two-man sweepers, possible after August 1, as the result of amendments to the American Bowling Congress constitution May 11, will greatly enhance interest in these affairs and furnish protection for the bowler. The ABC has never extended sanctioning protection to any event below the three-man team level.

• Know Your Rules:

Under the new membership rules of the ABC, male members of mixed leagues must secure a league sanction regardless of the number of men per team. In mixed leagues of men and women, either the president or the treasurer must be a male. . . . Any league which was sanctioned during the 1950-51 season is temporarily sanctioned for a period of six weeks after the start of its current schedule, according to a new ABC rule. Of course, the alleys on which its games are bowled must be certified and the league sanction application, membership dues and related reports submitted on or before the expiration of the six-weeks grace period.

Co-operate with your league secretary. Don't make him a suckertary.

To Honor Ouimet

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 19 (AP)—A cannon booms today and Francis Ouimet of Boston drives himself into the role of captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews. It's the first time the honor has ever been bestowed on an American, the title in the past has been restricted largely to royalty. Bobby Jones, although beloved by the British, never made it. Ouimet is honored for his 1913 victory over two famous British stars—Harry Vardon and Ted Ray—In the U. S. Open championship at Brookline, Mass., and for his years of service as captain of the U. S. Walker Cup team.

Cooper Holds Edge In Metro Tourney

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 19 (AP)—Pro Pete Cooper of the Century Country Club, White Plains, N. Y., leads the field going into the second round today of the Metropolitan Open Golf Championship.

But he's got plenty of fast competition and will have to do some classy swinging to keep on top in the tourney over the Forest Hill field club course.

Cooper fired a course record-breaking seven-under-par 63 in yesterday's first round after sinking a downhill eight-foot putt for a two on the 204-yard 18th hole. Previous record on the 6,516-yard course was set by Craig Wood, 11 years ago in the same tourney when he scored a 64.

Close on Cooper's heels was Joe Vileno of Demarest, N. J., who carded a scorching 66.

Fourteen players in all toured the course with under-par scores.

Some 160 professional and amateur contestants are competing for the $5,000 prize in the championship which was played here last in 1940.

Two Are Booked As Disorderly

Two of four young men arrested early today on disorderly conduct charges were booked by Lt. William Leonard at police headquarters on charges that they have been absent without leave from military service and all four are under further police investigation, the lieutenant said.

The arrests reported at 1:23 a. m., were made because they could not give an account of their actions," in the DeMicco used car lot to the rear of 334 Broadway, police said. Today it was learned that two of them are allegedly A.W.O.L. from the army, and police are investigating their possession of three automobile tires, two of them mounted, and said they have other questions to ask them.

The four, booked on the disorderly conduct charges, are Arthur Ferro, 19, of 22 Post street; George Mayr, 18, of 5 Wurts street; James E. Rawles, 19, of 13 Meadow street, and Richard C. Bell, 16, of 61 Broadway.

AWOL Is Charged

Lt. Leonard said it is charged that Rawles has been AWOL from military service since December, 1950, and Ferro is allegedly AWOL for several months this year.

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today sentenced Ferro to pay a fine of $3 or spend three days in jail. He took the jail sentence. Mayr was sentenced to five days in jail and the other two pleaded not guilty and are scheduled to appear in court Sept. 21.

Officers Charles Hoehing and George Loughran investigated the presence of the four in the used car lot early this morning, and Officer Loughran reported that he had heard them jump over a fence and gave chase. He caught up with them as they were about to drive away on Jansen avenue.

Search Is Made

Michael DeMicco, owner of the used car lot, was contacted, and a search was made of the lot. Nothing was reported missing, but a trunk on one of the cars was open, the report said.

Detective Clarence Brophy indicated that further investigation will be made of the tires they had with them and they will be questioned at length as to their recent activities in the city.

The police blotter notation said that "in searching the prisoners at headquarters a wallet belonging to George Fatum, 174 Wrentham street, was found on Richard Bell." Police said Fatum had reported the wallet lost several weeks ago.

Installed as President

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Deane W. Malott, businessman-educator, was installed today as Cornell University's sixth president. The 53-year-old Malott, for the past 12 years chancellor of the University of Kansas, was installed in an outdoor ceremony that coincided with the start of classes for Cornell's 9,200 students. Governor Dewey, a trustee of the University, was to speak at a luncheon after the installation. Malott succeeds the late Edmund Ezra Day as head of Cornell, a co-educational land grant college comprising both privately endowed schools and units of the State University of New York. Day retired from the presidency in 1949 and died this year.

London traffic is held up 100,000 times daily by the closing of level crossing gates, representing a loss of 4500 working hours daily.

Gross Gives . . .

he said. "I'm thinking of my wife and children."

The judge, referring to letters that have threatened the lives of Gross' family if he testifies, conceded that "there's no doubt somebody threatened you."

But he assured Gross the district attorney's office would provide his family with protection.

"What am I going to do?" Gross snapped, "have protection all my life? I want peace of mind. I'd sooner go to jail. I absolutely refuse to answer, now or later."

Every so often, Assistant District Attorney Julius Helfand put a question to Gross. The gambler merely shook his head, or stared silently at the floor.

Occasionally, he remarked, "let's go to lunch." Once, he sneered at the judge: "it's a crime what some people will do when they're political minded."

Warns of Long Term

Leibowitz barked: "I warn you Mr. Gross, all this sarcasm is going to cost you dearly. We'll sit here 'til doomsday. I'll give you a thousand years. I'll hand it to you. I'll bury you. You'll rot there."

Gross complained of being kept in solitary confinement, but the judge pointed out the gambler has been free the last several months, with police guards.

"Yeah, I saw you up on Broadway the other night," Gross said.

The judge said he also saw Gross there, and added, "you could have been murdered then."

"We could have both been murdered," Gross said.

When Gross first refused to talk, the judge tried mildly to persuade him to be "fair" to the district attorney who has "given of his soul to clean up this city." But the mildness didn't last.

A heated exchange ensued between him and the judge.

"I stand on my rights," Gross said stubbornly.

"You have no rights," the judge retorted. "You waived them yesterday. If you don't answer those questions, I warn you I will sentence you to the limit of the law. I'll do it if you have to rot in jail."

Accuses Judge

Alternately shouting and muttering, Gross accused the judge of having him kept in "solitary confinement" as a material witness.

"You're sure a very honorable man," Gross sneered at the judge.

"Trash-trash," Leibowitz shot back. "This man is spilling nothing but trash. If he hadn't been pampered so much, this wouldn't have happened." The judge added that he had nothing to do with police guards that have kept Gross in protective custody.

"It took 20 months to build this case," the judge said, "and I'm not going to see it go up in smoke now."

"It's taken 20 years off my life," Gross snarled.

The dapper, perfume-loving gambler claimed he had been kept by police in rooms with lights on 23 out of 24 hours a day, that he had not been supplied with adequate toilet articles.

Goes Back on Word

Gross, whose abrupt halt in testimony yesterday threatened to wreck the graft trial of 18 present or former policemen, had relented after a recess, and agreed to resume his testimony today.

But when the trial resumed, he announced resolutely: "I will not answer questions, now or later."

The gambler's sudden silence yesterday came after he already had told of a police-shielded start to a bookmaking career that spiraled to a $20,000,000 annual business.

Moran Loses Arm; Hurt September 13

Amputation of the right arm of William Moran, 54, of Lackawack, who was injured in an accident Sept. 13, was found necessary to prevent spread of a serious infection, his physician said today.

The arm was amputated above the elbow yesterday. Moran's condition at Kingston Hospital was described today as "still serious." He was admitted there Monday.

State police at Wurtsboro said Moran had suffered a compound fracture of the right arm which he had resting out of the window of a car when it and another vehicle sideswiped on the road between Napanoch and Lackawack. The injury apparently showed no serious effects immediately after the mishap.

Same Priority Cited

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—The New York Times, in a dispatch from Washington, quotes a highly placed United States official as saying French forces in Indochina will get the same priority in arms shipments as American forces in Korea. However, French requests are but a fraction of those made by the U. S. Far East Command, the official said. Gen. Jean de Tassigny, France's commander and high commissioner in Indochina, is now in Washington urging more arms for his fight against the Communist-led Viet Minh forces.

Two Are Booked As Disorderly

Two of four young men arrested early today on disorderly conduct charges were booked by Lt. William Leonard at police headquarters on charges that they have been absent without leave from military service and all four are under further police investigation, the lieutenant said.

The arrests reported at 1:23 a. m., were made because they could not give an account of their actions," in the DeMicco used car lot to the rear of 334 Broadway, police said. Today it was learned that two of them are allegedly A.W.O.L. from the army, and police are investigating their possession of three automobile tires, two of them mounted, and said they have other questions to ask them.

The four, booked on the disorderly conduct charges, are Arthur Ferro, 19, of 22 Post street; George Mayr, 18, of 5 Wurts street; James E. Rawles, 19, of 13 Meadow street, and Richard C. Bell, 16, of 61 Broadway.

AWOL Is Charged

Lt. Leonard said it is charged that Rawles has been AWOL from military service since December, 1950, and Ferro is allegedly AWOL for several months this year.

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today sentenced Ferro to pay a fine of $3 or spend three days in jail. He took the jail sentence. Mayr was sentenced to five days in jail and the other two pleaded not guilty and are scheduled to appear in court Sept. 21.

Officers Charles Hoehing and George Loughran investigated the presence of the four in the used car lot early this morning, and Officer Loughran reported that he had heard them jump over a fence and gave chase. He caught up with them as they were about to drive away on Jansen avenue.

Search Is Made

Michael DeMicco, owner of the used car lot, was contacted, and a search was made of the lot. Nothing was reported missing, but a trunk on one of the cars was open, the report said.

Detective Clarence Brophy indicated that further investigation will be made of the tires they had with them and they will be questioned at length as to their recent activities in the city.

The police blotter notation said that "in searching the prisoners at headquarters a wallet belonging to George Fatum, 174 Wrentham street, was found on Richard Bell." Police said Fatum had reported the wallet lost several weeks ago.

Installed as President

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Deane W. Malott, businessman-educator, was installed today as Cornell University's sixth president. The 53-year-old Malott, for the past 12 years chancellor of the University of Kansas, was installed in an outdoor ceremony that coincided with the start of classes for Cornell's 9,200 students. Governor Dewey, a trustee of the University, was to speak at a luncheon after the installation. Malott succeeds the late Edmund Ezra Day as head of Cornell, a co-educational land grant college comprising both privately endowed schools and units of the State University of New York. Day retired from the presidency in 1949 and died this year.

Moran Loses Arm; Hurt September 13

Amputation of the right arm of William Moran, 54, of Lackawack, who was injured in an accident Sept. 13, was found necessary to prevent spread of a serious infection, his physician said today.

The arm was amputated above the elbow yesterday. Moran's condition at Kingston Hospital was described today as "still serious." He was admitted there Monday.

State police at Wurtsboro said Moran had suffered a compound fracture of the right arm which he had resting out of the window of a car when it and another vehicle sideswiped on the road between Napanoch and Lackawack. The injury apparently showed no serious effects immediately after the mishap.

Executions Total 185

Hong Kong, Sept. 19 (AP)—Shanghai's wave of September executions soared to 185 Friday with the public killing of 119 more "counter-revolutionaries. The city's Liberation Daily reported the executions. It said 66 persons were executed Sept. 9 and 11. A Canton dispatch to the Independent Wan Kiu Yat Po quoted Koo Tat-sun, vice chairman of the Kwangtung peoples' (Communist) government as reporting that 28,332 persons were executed between Oct. 1, 1950 and Aug. 10. He also was reported to have said that government troops annihiliated 52,620 guerrillas in the southern province of Kwangtung.

Miller Assumes Duties

Williamsburg, Va., Sept. 19 (AP)—Dr. James W. Miller, a 49-year-old teacher of philosophy, today assumed his duties as acting president of historic Willam and Mary College. He succeeds Dr. John E. Pomfret, who resigned Sept. 13 after the board had criticized his administration for its handling of an athletic scandal at the college. Dr. Miller takes over the administrative reins of the college at a time when it is still embroiled in controversy over alleged irregularities in the department of athletics in the grading of student athletes.

The North Korean radio at Pyongyang Wednesday said the Communists sank an allied destroyer in Wonsan harbor on the east coast and shot down 12 planes, including three B-29s.

The navy public information office in Tokyo said it had no reports of an allied destroyer being sunk. A Far East Air Forces spokesman said no B-29s have been lost to enemy action in Korea for several weeks.

Two Are Booked As Disorderly

Two of four young men arrested early today on disorderly conduct charges were booked by Lt. William Leonard at police headquarters on charges that they have been absent without leave from military service and all four are under further police investigation, the lieutenant said.

The arrests reported at 1:23 a. m., were made because they could not give an account of their actions," in the DeMicco used car lot to the rear of 334 Broadway, police said. Today it was learned that two of them are allegedly A.W.O.L. from the army, and police are investigating their possession of three automobile tires, two of them mounted, and said they have other questions to ask them.

The four, booked on the disorderly conduct charges, are Arthur Ferro, 19, of 22 Post street; George Mayr, 18, of 5 Wurts street; James E. Rawles, 19, of 13 Meadow street, and Richard C. Bell, 16, of 61 Broadway.

AWOL Is Charged

Lt. Leonard said it is charged that Rawles has been AWOL from military service since December, 1950, and Ferro is allegedly AWOL for several months this year.

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today sentenced Ferro to pay a fine of $3 or spend three days in jail. He took the jail sentence. Mayr was sentenced to five days in jail and the other two pleaded not guilty and are scheduled to appear in court Sept. 21.

Officers Charles Hoehing and George Loughran investigated the presence of the four in the used car lot early this morning, and Officer Loughran reported that he had heard them jump over a fence and gave chase. He caught up with them as they were about to drive away on Jansen avenue.

Search Is Made

Michael DeMicco, owner of the used car lot, was contacted, and a search was made of the lot. Nothing was reported missing, but a trunk on one of the cars was open, the report said.

Detective Clarence Brophy indicated that further investigation will be made of the tires they had with them and they will be questioned at length as to their recent activities in the city.

The police blotter notation said that "in searching the prisoners at headquarters a wallet belonging to George Fatum, 174 Wrentham street, was found on Richard Bell." Police said Fatum had reported the wallet lost several weeks ago.

Installed as President

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Deane W. Malott, businessman-educator, was installed today as Cornell University's sixth president. The 53-year-old Malott, for the past 12 years chancellor of the University of Kansas, was installed in an outdoor ceremony that coincided with the start of classes for Cornell's 9,200 students. Governor Dewey, a trustee of the University, was to speak at a luncheon after the installation. Malott succeeds the late Edmund Ezra Day as head of Cornell, a co-educational land grant college comprising both privately endowed schools and units of the State University of New York. Day retired from the presidency in 1949 and died this year.

Making Plans for Legion Ball November 12th

Gross Gives . . .

he said. "I'm thinking of my wife and children."

The judge, referring to letters that have threatened the lives of Gross' family if he testifies, conceded that "there's no doubt somebody threatened you."

But he assured Gross the district attorney's office would provide his family with protection.

"What am I going to do?" Gross snapped, "have protection all my life? I want peace of mind. I'd sooner go to jail. I absolutely refuse to answer, now or later."

Every so often, Assistant District Attorney Julius Helfand put a question to Gross. The gambler merely shook his head, or stared silently at the floor.

Occasionally, he remarked, "let's go to lunch." Once, he sneered at the judge: "it's a crime what some people will do when they're political minded."

Warns of Long Term

Leibowitz barked: "I warn you Mr. Gross, all this sarcasm is going to cost you dearly. We'll sit here 'til doomsday. I'll give you a thousand years. I'll hand it to you. I'll bury you. You'll rot there."

Gross complained of being kept in solitary confinement, but the judge pointed out the gambler has been free the last several months, with police guards.

"Yeah, I saw you up on Broadway the other night," Gross said.

The judge said he also saw Gross there, and added, "you could have been murdered then."

"We could have both been murdered," Gross said.

When Gross first refused to talk, the judge tried mildly to persuade him to be "fair" to the district attorney who has "given of his soul to clean up this city." But the mildness didn't last.

A heated exchange ensued between him and the judge.

"I stand on my rights," Gross said stubbornly.

"You have no rights," the judge retorted. "You waived them yesterday. If you don't answer those questions, I warn you I will sentence you to the limit of the law. I'll do it if you have to rot in jail."

Accuses Judge

Alternately shouting and muttering, Gross accused the judge of having him kept in "solitary confinement" as a material witness.

"You're sure a very honorable man," Gross sneered at the judge.

"Trash-trash," Leibowitz shot back. "This man is spilling nothing but trash. If he hadn't been pampered so much, this wouldn't have happened." The judge added that he had nothing to do with police guards that have kept Gross in protective custody.

"It took 20 months to build this case," the judge said, "and I'm not going to see it go up in smoke now."

"It's taken 20 years off my life," Gross snarled.

The dapper, perfume-loving gambler claimed he had been kept by police in rooms with lights on 23 out of 24 hours a day, that he had not been supplied with adequate toilet articles.

Goes Back on Word

Gross, whose abrupt halt in testimony yesterday threatened to wreck the graft trial of 18 present or former policemen, had relented after a recess, and agreed to resume his testimony today.

But when the trial resumed, he announced resolutely: "I will not answer questions, now or later."

The gambler's sudden silence yesterday came after he already had told of a police-shielded start to a bookmaking career that spiraled to a $20,000,000 annual business.

Defense attorneys today made a second, unsuccessful effort to get the judge to order a mental examination for the witness.

Says Taft Can Win

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP)—The national director of the CIO Political Action Committee says Senator Robert Taft of Ohio can be elected president if labor unions "fall asleep at the switch."

Addressing the United Rubber, Cork, Lineleum and Plastic Workers of America convention, Jack Kroll said: "Senator Taft is the implacable enemy of our movements. We can have open shop again if we are not careful. If that happened, you delegates would not be arguing about a few cents more dues a month. You'd be spending millions defending your organization."

Bookie Harry Gross, kingpin Brooklyn, N. Y., gambler, arrives at King's County Court to testify as star witness at Sept. 18 session of mass graft trial of 18 policemen. Previously he had testified—without protest—but, suddenly, in the afternoon, he halted his testimony, said he would answer no more questions and left the witness stand. 14 Truckmen Are Called Violators

Fourteen truckmen ran afoul of the law yesterday in a routine check by state police at the Kingston state police station on Route 9-W where a truck check was being made.

Corporal Herron reported the "usual run" of violations. Some were for overloading and others were for failure to have trucks properly equipped as required by law.

Summonses were issued and the violators will appear in court later.

State police at the Kingston station north of Kingston are equipped with scales for weighing vehicles and Corporal Herron reported the inspection Tuesday was a "routine" check which will be continued at various times in the future.

Kingston's Share $218,200 in Aid For City Schools

Kingston's share of the first apportionment of public school money from the New York State Education Department is $218,200.

Announcement to this effect was made today by John T. Groves, county treasurer, who said that the total for the county was $615,355.

Here's How It Happened

Philadelphia, Sept. 19 (AP)—George R. Conover, vice president of the Philadelphia Electric Co., had an accident—and he got tired telling people how it happened. Ask him about it today and you'll get this printed card: "The patch on my head covers a four-inch scalp wound which took seven stitches to close. It happened on my boat off Ocean City, N. J. While making a motor repair a large wave threw me off balance and my head struck the bulkhead. "Yes, I was alone on the boat. Yes, I lost a lot of blood before they got me to the hospital, but no fracture. "No, I didn't have a drink before the accident, but took five straight after they sewed me up. Yes, I'm feeling fine now. Thanks for asking."

Rita Hires Guards, Fears Kidnaping

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP)—Rita Hayworth, alarmed by anonymous kidnap threats, has hired detectives to guard her 19-month-old daughter Yasmin, the Los Angeles Times reports.

The child's father is Moslem Prince Aly Khan, whom Miss Hayworth is in Reno to divorce.

The Times said in a story last night that the actress' Hollywood friends ascribe the threats to the fact she is seeking a large financial settlement for Yasmin.

Also being closely watched is Rita's other daughter, Rebecca, born of her previous marriage to Actor Orson Welles.

The actress' friends in Paris say she has written them that she is in constant dread of a possible kidnaping.

Miss Hayworth returned to this country from Europe last April and three weeks later announced she had separated from Prince Aly. They were married in 1949.

Chinese Dollar Shrinks

Hong Kong (AP)—A drop in money sent to Red China by Chinese overseas has resulted in depreciation of the Chinese Communist dollar. Hong Kong banks report the Red dollar has dropped to 27,000 for $1 U. S. from the official rate of 21,000 for $1. Chinese abroad must remit through official channels, meaning that their families in China received only about 70 cents on the dollar in South China. Bankers reported a 60 per cent drop in money transfers from overseas.

Remove Body of Aged Victim

Rescuers carry out the body of one of the women burned to death when flames destroyed a home for the aged at Colesville, Md. Fire departments from a dozen neighboring communities aided in the rescue and fire fighting work. Colesville is a small community in heavily populated Montgomery county, 15 miles north of Washington, D. C. (AP Wirephoto).

Fire Strikes Home

Rescue workers place an aged victim on a stretcher outside the burning nursing home for the aged in Collesville, Md. Fire in the home killed four persons, police said, and injured "many" others. The home is near Washington, D. C. (NEA Telephoto).

Here's How It Happened

Philadelphia, Sept. 19 (AP)—George R. Conover, vice president of the Philadelphia Electric Co., had an accident—and he got tired telling people how it happened. Ask him about it today and you'll get this printed card: "The patch on my head covers a four-inch scalp wound which took seven stitches to close. It happened on my boat off Ocean City, N. J. While making a motor repair a large wave threw me off balance and my head struck the bulkhead. "Yes, I was alone on the boat. Yes, I lost a lot of blood before they got me to the hospital, but no fracture. "No, I didn't have a drink before the accident, but took five straight after they sewed me up. Yes, I'm feeling fine now. Thanks for asking."

Kingston's Share $218,200 in Aid For City Schools

Kingston's share of the first apportionment of public school money from the New York State Education Department is $218,200.

Announcement to this effect was made today by John T. Groves, county treasurer, who said that the total for the county was $615,355.

Allotments to other areas are:
Village of Saugerties, $42,300.
First supervisory district $39,495.
Second supervisory district $181,415.
Third supervisory district $115,430.
Fourth supervisory district $18,515.

Checks will be sent to the districts, Groves said, as soon as the collectors file their surety bonds, covering these funds, with their district supervisors.

The school year period on which the apportionment is based runs from July 1, 1951 to June 30, 1952.

The National Geographic Society says fish account for about 95 per cent of Iceland's exports.

Rita Hires Guards, Fears Kidnaping

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP)—Rita Hayworth, alarmed by anonymous kidnap threats, has hired detectives to guard her 19-month-old daughter Yasmin, the Los Angeles Times reports.

The child's father is Moslem Prince Aly Khan, whom Miss Hayworth is in Reno to divorce.

The Times said in a story last night that the actress' Hollywood friends ascribe the threats to the fact she is seeking a large financial settlement for Yasmin.

Also being closely watched is Rita's other daughter, Rebecca, born of her previous marriage to Actor Orson Welles.

The actress' friends in Paris say she has written them that she is in constant dread of a possible kidnaping.

Miss Hayworth returned to this country from Europe last April and three weeks later announced she had separated from Prince Aly. They were married in 1949.

Chinese Dollar Shrinks

Hong Kong (AP)—A drop in money sent to Red China by Chinese overseas has resulted in depreciation of the Chinese Communist dollar. Hong Kong banks report the Red dollar has dropped to 27,000 for $1 U. S. from the official rate of 21,000 for $1. Chinese abroad must remit through official channels, meaning that their families in China received only about 70 cents on the dollar in South China. Bankers reported a 60 per cent drop in money transfers from overseas.
